SUMMARY.

It is reported that German plans are ready for the early evacuation of Belgium.

The Germans will return to the frontier, in order to show the world that they really want to defend the Fatherland.

The Germans are stated to be removing stores and guns from the Belgian coast. The German civilians have been recalled.

The naval reserves stationed in Antwerp are said to be preparing to leave Belgium.

The British have advanced three miles south-east of Roulers. They have also encircled Armentieres.

Roulers and Menin are on fire. French guns dominate the Ostend-Courtrai railway.

Intense fighting continues in the Cambrai sector.

The New Zealanders have occupied Crevecoeur and Rumilly, south of Cambrai.

The Australians completed the capture of the enemy's defences south of Le Catelet and Gouy.

According to unofficial reports the Allies have taken Cambrai.

Fires are burning in Cambrai, and the city is believed to be heavily mined. The Allies are avoiding a direct assault.

A German retirement on a big scale is confidently expected.

The British have smashed the German lines five miles north-east of St. Quentin.

The Americans are making good progress in the Argonne forest.

The enemy is withdrawing on the American left towards the Kriemhild line.

Reports have reached New York that the Germans are retreating across the Aisne Canal, and that the French are pursuing them.

Widespread terror prevails on the Rhine, owing to British air raids.

Bulgaria's surrender has created an enormous impression in Austria.

There is a great ferment in Bohemia and among the Slavs.

The Emperor is constantly in consultation with his advisers.

The burgomasters of Vienna, Budapest, Prague, and Trieste have issued proclamations urging the population to remain calm.

The Bulgarian peace move caused a terrific panic on the Budapest Bourse. Many important failures occurred.

The Austrians are said to be obsessed with a desire for peace.

The Hungarian newspapers are demanding the rupture of the German alliance.

The pro-Germans in Sofia are reported to be forming a Cabinet.

General Savoff has been entrusted with the reorganisation of the Bulgarian troops.

It is believed in Austro-German circles that it is not too late to save the situation by a vigorous policy.

A Servian communique states that the Bulgarian troops are returning to Bulgaria.

All the Prussian Ministers and Secretaries of State have tendered their resignation.

The process of recreating a so-called Government of National Defence has been begun in Berlin.

The main efforts of the existing rulers are concentrated on mobilising the Socialists.

They desire to present to the world a picture of a new Germany clothed in the white sheet of democracy.

In the meantime all is confusion. The Government on Wednesday indefinitely adjourned the main committee of the Reichstag.

The Independent Socialists vainly protested against the gagging operations, and made stormy demonstrations.

Eventually the Chairman, amid wild turmoil, closed the sitting. The Pan-Germans declare that all is lost.

Turkey is reported to have informed Germany that she was determined to sue for peace.

Germany replied that she intended to occupy Bulgaria with a military force.

The question is now in suspense, but a decision is imminent.

A Palestine communique states that Damascus was occupied by the British on Tuesday. Seven thousand prisoners were captured.

The future trade relationship of Australia and France was discussed by the Chamber of Commerce and the commercial representatives of the French Mission yesterday.

Dr. Siegfried said the Mission believed that an extended business relationship was possible between the two countries.

He thought there was no reason why France should not take the place in Australian markets that Germany formerly held.

General Pau and other members of the French Mission sampled several types of Australian wines yesterday.

The visitors spoke in high terms of the light and heavy wines.

Mr. Meadows Smith addressed a gathering of working men at Wollongong on the outlook for labour after the war.

Nothing had impressed the French so much, he said, as the kindness of the Australian troops to the peasantry in the north of France.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the City Nightrefuge, Sir Walter Davidson alluded to the developments in the war situation.

"The enemy is broken—the thieves have fallen out, and will come up for sentence shortly," remarked his Excellency.

At a special sitting of the Full Court yesterday tributes were paid by Bench and Bar to the late Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson.

The Electrical Trades Union has decided not to participate in the recruiting ballot of the A.L.P.

On the other hand, the union resolved to invest £500 in the Commonwealth seventh war loan.

The Storemen and Packers' Union, as well as the Blacksmiths' Society, also refuses to take part in the ballot.

A meeting was held yesterday to make arrangements for the jubilee celebrations of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital.

A federation of health inspectors, to be known as the Australian Health Inspectors' Association, is to be formed.

The funeral of the late Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson took place in the Field of Mars Cemetery, Ryde, yesterday.

Another contingent of departing reinforcements paraded the city yesterday, and were loudly cheered.

The fixed prices for spirits and liquors of every description have been repealed.

The Electrical Trades Union and the Blacksmiths' Society have decided to oppose the "one big union" scheme.

At a meeting of ratepayers of Bellevue Ward last night it was decided to support the Woollahra Loan Bill.

A British tank of the latest pattern arrived in Sydney yesterday. War Loan bonds will be sold from it to-day.

A batch of returned soldiers who arrived yesterday included 157 New South Wales men, 24 Victorians, 73 Queenslanders, and over 100 New Zealanders.

The majority were from Egypt and Palestine, the others being from the Western front.

The Assembly adjourned at 6.30 last evening to allow of members attending the State concert in honour of the French mission.

Notice was given for the introduction of a Bill to enable poor people to secure the best legal advice free of charge.

A further decrease in the number of applications for beds and meals at the City Night Refuge was reported at the annual meeting.

This was attributed to the fact that many of those accustomed to receive assistance had become munition workers.

There was a heavy yarding of sheep and lambs at Homebush yesterday, the supply being the largest for many months. Values dropped.

High prices again ruled for cattle. Competition was keen, and the market was firm throughout.

A firm market ruled for investments on the Stock Exchange, and a moderate volume of business was transacted at firm prices.

Forecast.—Except for a few passing showers, fine, with increasing temperatures. Another cold night with frosts and some coastal fogs.

FOR HOLIDAY OUTINGS, LIGHT "NO-VESTE" SUITS.

PEAPES' "NO-VESTE" OUTING SUITS are ideal for holiday wear—cool, comfortable, easy-to-wash suits that retain their good shape during the whole period of wear.

Some of these suits are shown in our windows this week; and it will be readily apparent to anyone who looks at them that there is quality in the cloth, good style, and good workmanship in every garment.

We quote two popular suits:—

THE "BRIGHTON BEACH." Made of light strong woollen material of Biscuit shade. Coat: Sports style with half band at back, 2 patch pockets with buttons and flaps. Trousers: Side, hip, and fob pockets and permanent turn-up. Looks as well as a silk suit, lasts longer, and holds its shape better because a more substantial material. READY-TO-WEAR, 65/.

SUMMERWEIGHT DONEGAL. Style as above, but 3 patch pockets to coat. Material: A grey-green Irish Donegal Tweed, light texture but extremely durable. READY-TO-WEAR, 84/.

SNOW'S

SUGGEST SOMETHING NEW FOR HOLIDAY WEAR.

"Holiday phrases, holiday manners, holiday clothes," meaning the best, or those put on to make the best appearance, are common phrases in our language, and indicate our customs, habits, and character.

Curious that nobody feels in holiday mood or enjoys a holiday thoroughly in old or workaday clothes. We must have holiday attire for the holiday spirit. Snow's are therefore showing to-day

SOME SPECIAL VALUES IN HOLIDAY SKIRTS.

They are all Smart, Stylish, and Fashionable, and are all marked at Snow's Lower than Elsewhere Prices; so, IF YOU BUY HOLIDAY ATTIRE AT SNOW'S, YOU'LL HAVE MORE LEFT TO SPEND ON MONDAY'S HOLIDAY.

THE ALWAYS SERVICEABLE PIQUE SKIRT. Snow's have in good quality. There are five styles to choose from. One very smart example has two stitched Tabs at sides, which hold Crescent-shaped pockets, finished with Pearl Buttons; has half-belt front and back, and is nicely eased to waist; has side opening. PRICE 9/11

PRACTICAL HOLIDAY SKIRT, in Natural Coloured Palm Beach Cloth. Snow's have these in two styles. One has plain Skirt, which has two shaped tabs attached to waist, trimmed with rows of silk stitching, and finished with Pearl Buttons. The tabs are held with rings at waistline, and the Belt fastens through. PRICE 11/9

WHITE WASHING COTTON GABARDINE SKIRT, has wide panel front and back; two shaped pieces at side, which are fastened to panel with self buttons. These pieces are carried to back of waist and form very smart double belt at back; nicely eased to waist all round; wide belt terminates in front with pointed ends. PRICE 18/11

OTHER STYLES IN COTTON GABARDINES, 12/11, 14/11, and 15/11.

IN COLOURED STRIPE WASHING CREPE, IN THREE STYLES, with Box Pleats, Box and Knife Pleats, and Full Knife Pleated design. In White and Coloured Grounds, with one-inch Block Stripes, in Vieux Rose, Sky, Fawn, Pink, Saxe, Reseda, Grey, Hello., and Navy. In 25 to 30 inch waists. PRICES .... 16/11 and 19/11

SEE COSTUME SECTION, SECOND FLOOR.

STYLISH RACE HATS AT SNOW'S.

Of course, you must have a Smart, Stylish Hat for the Races, because the Hat crowns all. There's a wide range in Snow's Millinery Showroom for your selection in the latest and most dainty styles.

SMART SAILOR SHAPE, carried out in White and Black Aerophane. The Crown and part of Brim is of White, and the edge and under-lining is in Black. The trimming consists of three Ostrich Quills placed flatly on Brim. PRICE 39/6

A SEMI-TRANSPARENT HAT, carried out in Mastic Shade of Aerophane. This is a large hat, with a slightly drooped Brim and Dome Crown. The trimming is four large poppies in tonings of Cerise, Saxe, Navy, and Mole, and it is finished with a band and knot of Saxe Faille Ribbon. PRICE 39/6

SMART SMALL AMERICAN SAILOR HAT, with a square Crown, is of Mastic Aerophane, trimmed simply with two Navy Blue Quills around Crown, and finished with knot of ribbon. PRICE 45/

VERY BECOMING HAT FOR MATRONS, in Black dull Satin; has a slight roll at back, and straight Brim to face. Trimming is Oriental in colouring; flat on brim, and it is finished with two neat Osprey Mounts. PRICE 45/

FRIDAY'S PRICE ADVANTAGES AT FARMER'S OF MORE THAN USUAL IMPORTANCE TO SHOPPERS THIS WEEK-END.

The holiday week-end so near, and so many things still wanted and still unbought, makes this Friday more than usually important to all shoppers. Of even more importance are this Friday's Price Advantages at Farmer's. A judicious selection by us, among the most sought departments, this holiday time, puts before you at a considerably reduced price many of the very articles you have placed upon your list. Just consider the following. Are they not the very things you are looking for:—

MARKED AT REDUCED PRICES.
Crash Motor Coat. White Button Boots.
Bathing Costumes. White Silk Hose.
Face Powder. White Voile Skirt.
Suit Cases. Silk Handbags.
And several other lines reduced for To-day only.

Since our introduction of Friday's Price Advantages it has often been asked, "why throng those crowds through Farmer's on a Friday?" Special Prices would not draw alone. It is the Value behind the price that tells. More than that, we are filling the needs of the hour with high-quality articles hitched to prices that show a keenly pared margin—and that is how the magic is worked. The foundation is solid throughout.

Just below you may learn further facts about the goods selected for to-day.

HOLIDAY FOOTWEAR BEARS FRIDAY'S PRICE ADVANTAGES.

With such a large stock of White Footwear, embracing such fine values as to be found in the Ladies' Boot Department, it proved indeed a hard task to choose out a line for special reduction. However, the following will be found immensely satisfactory and carries our high recommendation.

LADIES' WHITE DRILL BUTTON BOOT, an American-made model, with White Ivory soles and smart French heel; in medium and wide fittings and half sizes. Usually .. 29/6. FRIDAY'S PRICE .... 25/6. Ladies' Footwear Salon, Third Floor, Pitt-st.

WHITE SILK HOSE, AT FRIDAY'S PRICE.

The wearing of White Silk Hose has proved such an economy that the most wisely-dressed women think it no indulgence to place Silk Hose upon their feet. But the life of the hose depends upon the good value throughout; many are reinforced with lisle tops and feet. The Ideal White Silk Stocking is here selected for Friday's selling at a special price.—THESE WHITE SILK HOSE are fully fashioned and have lisle tops and feet. They are most reliable stockings—in a full range of sizes. Usual Price .... 11/6. FRIDAY'S PRICE .... 10/11. Hosiery Counter, Ground Floor, Pitt-street.

BATHING COSTUMES, AT FRIDAY'S PRICE.

Those who have the good fortune to spend the holiday at the seaside, must be provided with a Bathing Costume—or miss half the fun. The following selection for Friday's Selling is an extra-fine Value even at the usual price:—LADIES' NAVY ALL-WOOL BATHING COSTUME, Canadian design, in two-piece style, laced at sides and neck with assorted coloured lacings. Very much improved design. Usual Price .... 16/6. FRIDAY'S PRICE .... 15/6. Underclothing Salon, Fourth Floor, Pitt-st.

SUIT CASE OPPORTUNITY, AT FRIDAY'S PRICE.

The Suit Case is another indispensable holiday requisite. Neatly packed luggage strongly locked in a suit case of not too heavy a weight contributes much towards the holiday pleasure. Here is a special value indeed just to your hand:—SPLENDID SUIT CASE, made on fibre foundation, covered with cloth and fitted with two secure locks; mounted on a metal frame, each corner being heavily capped with fibre. Sizes 26 inches. Usual Price .... 37/6. FRIDAY'S PRICE .... 30/. Travelling Requisites, First Floor, George-street.

WHITE VOILE SKIRTS AT FRIDAY'S PRICE ADVANTAGE.

Voile Skirts are very popular this holiday Season and an immense range of styles is showing this day in the Second Floor Salon. They are in plain White and coloured Check, striped and figured Voile. For Friday's Price Advantage we have chosen one of our most popular styles in White Voile. THIS SPECIAL WHITE VOILE SKIRT has loose panels at sides and three tiers of graduated tucks; eased to waist all round. Finished with neatly stitched belt. Usually 17/6. FRIDAY'S PRICE .... 15/6. Skirt Salon, Second Floor, Pitt-street.

CRASH MOTOR COATS AT FRIDAY'S PRICE.

Chosen from a variety of smart styles is this very special Value Crash Motor Coat. Usually 27/6 and priced for to-day at 25/. Description here follows:—CRASH MOTOR COAT, a smart model with large convertible collar, trimmed with self button. The patch pockets and inlet sleeves have turnbacks, whilst waist is finished with a narrow belt. Usually .... 27/6. FRIDAY'S PRICE, 25/. Mantle Salon, Second Floor, Pitt-street.

OTHER SMALL NEEDS AT FRIDAY'S PRICES FOR HOLIDAY-MAKERS.

BLACK MOIRE SILK OR SATIN BAGS, fitted inside pocket and mirror. In several smart shapes to choose. Finished with tassel. Usual Price, 21/. FRIDAY'S PRICE, 18/6. Handbag Dept., Ground Floor, George-street.

IVORY GEORGETTE CROSSOVER FRONT, with roll collar, loose from shoulder, so as to be adjustable for any coat. Collar trimmed with dainty design of real Filet Insertion and Lace. A most suitable line for Race Wear. Usual Price, 35/. FRIDAY'S PRICE .... 30/. Neckwear Counter, Ground Floor, George-st.

ART NEEDLEWORK REDUCED FOR FRIDAY.

TRACED HUCKABACK GUEST TOWELS, with scallops on each end, and a dainty design to be embroidered on one end, in White or Coloured Cotton. Usual Price, 3/11. FRIDAY'S PRICE, 3/6. Art Needlework Dept., Ground Floor, George-st.

Let us also bring before the notice of keen Friday Shoppers the following:

FINE VALUES IN FUJI SILK COSTUMES

For Holiday-wearing.

Those who are looking for a Coat and Skirt designed on the most up-to-date lines and cut to perfection, yet wish to pay a moderate price, will find that the following Fuji Silk Costumes fulfil all these requirements. Fuji Silk has sprung into universal favour because of its dependable washing qualities. Farmer's have added distinction to these Costumes by introducing spots or stripes by way of contrast on collar and cuffs. The result is in every case smart.

FUJI SILK COSTUME, showing the big combination collar and lapel. The waist has loose belt. Cuffs are trimmed to match collar. The skirt is box-pleated and a good style to wear with blouse. PRICE, £5/15/6

VERY CHIC FUJI COSTUME, made in a combination of plain and stripe material. At the back there is a centre panel of stripes laid crossways, and at each side in front it matches back. The roll collar is striped. Waist has loose belt. Skirt is neatly pleated, forming panel back and front. PRICE .... £5/5/. Costume Salon, Second Floor, Market street.

LOUISE—

HATS AND PARIS VANITIES.

THE "LOUISE" RACE HATS

are featured in a Salon Display To-day. They are creations of wonderful charm; exquisite fabrics, of a line and contour only seen on exclusive modes, and should be seen to-day for to-morrow's meeting at Randwick.

THE VALKYRIE—Oh! so smart, and for a Charming Girl.

"HER GRACE" is a Matron's style, extremely exclusive, Camille Rouger Sponsors, a "duck of a hat" for wear with a tubbing gown.

And Reboux offers a Model in Black Satin with a Mole Veil, which is art etherealised.

LOUISE INVITES YOU TO SEE THEM.

LOUISE—

THERE'S NO COOKING LIKE HOME COOKING—

especially when it comes to Cakes and such dainties. To make these "goodies" light, flaky, and tasty always use

"WHITE WINGS" SELF-RAISING FLOUR.

The flour in any cake costs only a few pence, but it has more to do with the success of the cake than all the other ingredients.

It is much more economical to make your own cakes at home, especially when you use "White Wings" Self-Raising Flour.

Its fineness and evenness make it easy to mix. Its purity assures a uniform result always.

Ask for "White Wings" Self-raising Flour at your grocer's. Also try White Wings Breakfast Meal and Rolled Oats. Manufactured by MAKING THE SCONES LIGHT.

When I first tried Brasnd's Baking Powder in Scones I found it secured for me the best results I ever obtained. They were light and thoroughly cooked; the crust was crisp and brown, and the scones throughout even-textured and wholesome.

IRELAND'S BAKING POWDER

cannot fail to secure uniformly good Scones, because it is more carefully and scientifically mixed—the ingredients are specially selected, and are the purest and best we can possibly obtain.

It is also for better results in Pastry and Cakes.

The Guarantee in every tin is your assurance of quality. ASK FOR IRELAND'S, AND BE SURE TO GET IT.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO JURY COURT.
(Before Mr. Justice Sly and Jury.)
STOCKRIDER'S AMPUTATED LEG.
Scott v Bucknell.

Herbert Gordon Scott, the plaintiff in this action, a woolclasser and station hand, sued Wentworth (or Hugh) Bucknell, owner of Crynolyn station, near Mungindi, claiming £1000 damages, in respect of injuries received while in the defendant's employ. The plaintiff's story was to the effect that he was engaged by the defendant in January, 1917, as a station hand at a wage of 30s a week and keep for himself and wife, his duties being to tend sheep and cattle, ride the fences, and occasionally take delivery of stock. Upon taking up his duties he was given an unbroken colt to ride, which on trial proved to be an "outlaw." The plaintiff repeatedly protested against being required to ride the horse, but the defendant persisted that he should do so, stating that if the colt were turned out half broken it would be ruined, and refusing to provide him with other available mounts on the station. Finally, on Good Friday of last year the colt, when being ridden by the plaintiff, got out of control, bolted, and dashed him into a post, fracturing his leg so badly that the lower part of the limb had finally to be amputated. During a period of over nine months' treatment in the hospitals at Mungindi and Tamworth, and at Prince Alfred Hospital, he submitted to 22 operations and five amputations. The defendant, in addition to a general plea of not guilty, traversed the plaintiff's allegations that he had been compelled to use the colt, and stated that plaintiff was employed and paid to break in horses; also that he had contracted to break the colt referred to for £1.

Mr. Boyce and Mr. Lloyd (instructed by Messrs. Pigott and Stinson, Sydney agents for Messrs. R. D. Fitzgerald and Co., of Muswellbrook) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. Mocatta (instructed by Mr. M. A. H. Fitzhardinge, Sydney agent for Mr. A. B. F. Zlotkowski, of Moree) for the defendant.

The case is part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.
(Before his Honor Judge Rolin.)
FEDERATED IRONWORKERS ASSISTANTS' AWARD.

An application was made by Mr. Cantor (Messrs. Cecil A. Coghlan and Co.), on behalf of the Federated Ironworkers' Association for an award under the Iron and Shipbuilding Trades Group, No. 11 Board. Mr. Vero Read (Messrs. Norton Smith and Co.) appeared for the Iron Trades Employers' Association; Mr. Phelps Richards, for the Electrical Employers; Mr. A. A. Rankin, for the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., and Mr. S. E. Cook, for Messrs. J. and A. Brown, Ltd., who were granted exemption. The application was for increased wages, and improved conditions throughout the industry. On the wages issue the question before the Court was whether the full increase in the cost of living should be awarded, or the Marrinal scale appeared. Mr. Cantor contended that as Mr. Justice Edmunds in 1915 treated the industry as a prosperous one the Court to-day should treat it as prosperous, and that the onus of satisfying the Court that it was not so was upon the employers.

The matter is part heard.

(Before his Honor Judge Curlewis.)
AWARD FOR ROPE-MAKERS.

An award was made in terms of an agreement arrived at between the parties on the application of the Rope and Binder-twine Makers' Union of New South Wales, to regulate the wages and conditions of rope-makers. Increased wages ranging from 6/ to 9/ in the case of adults, and 3/6 per week for juniors were conceded. The award is to operate for three years. Mr. Henwood appeared for the union, and Mr. Forsythe for Messrs. Forsythe and Co., Ltd., and J. S. Scott, Ltd.

BUTTER FACTORY EMPLOYEES.

On the application of the Federated Cold Storage and Meat Preserving Employees' Union of Australia (New South Wales branch), a variation was granted in the award of the Butter Factories (State) Board. The amended award gives advances of from 5/ to 6/ per week, in the rates of pay of adult workers. Mr. Henwood appeared for the applicant union, and Mr. H. S. Mackenzie for the Primary Producers' Union of New South Wales.

DISTRICT COURT.
(Before Judge Docker.)
MOTION PICTURE.

Frank Pearson, of Sydney, agent, claimed £150 from A. C. Tinsdale, of Sydney, company manager, for an alleged breach of agreement. The plaintiff contended that he had agreed with the defendant to purchase £50 worth of shares in the Austral Photo-play Company, Limited, on the understanding that he was to follow up and collect fees in connection with certain pictures, more particularly 10 per cent. on a picture entitled "The Laugh on Dad." The plaintiff alleged that the defendant had not carried out this agreement. The defendant stated that a different agreement was arrived at by the parties to that on which the plaintiff sued. Mr. Abrahams, instructed by Messrs. John Williamson and Sons, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. J. E. Gosling (Messrs. Priddle and Gosling) for the defendant. After the plaintiff's case had been entered upon a settlement was arrived at, the defendant paying the plaintiff £40, without costs.

MOTOR LORRY ACCIDENT.

Arthur Annesley Inglis, of Coogee, sued the Municipal Council of Sydney for £100 for alleged damages done by the defendant's motor lorry to plaintiff's sulky and horse, and for personal injuries sustained by the plaintiff. The defence was a denial of negligence, and the defendant counter-claimed for damages caused by the plaintiff's horse and sulky. Mr. Breckenridge, instructed by Mr. Maddocks Cohen, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Markell, instructed by Mr. T. W. K. Waldron, city solicitor, for the defendant. A verdict was returned for the defendant.

QUARTER SESSIONS.
(Before Judge Docker.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

Joseph Donnelly, Thomas Vidler, and Alfred Coleman were charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm upon Constable Rowe Hamaford. The three accused were also charged with assaulting Constable Hamaford while in the execution of his duty. In the absence of three of his witnesses, Coleman was remanded on bail.

Mr. Parker appeared for Vidler. In the case for the Crown, it was stated that Constable Hamaford was assaulted and injured while attempting to arrest Donnelly. The jury found both accused guilty of assaulting Constable Hamaford, and recommended Vidler to mercy on account of his services as a soldier. His Honor reserved sentence.

Albert Edward Pond, a seaman, pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing £180, the property of Theodore Tambarkis. Accused said that he found money on the deck of a steamer while coming from Grafton to Sydney. He had handed over to the police all but £14 of the money, and was prepared to make up the deficiency. He asked to be dealt with leniently, as he was a married man with three children. His Honor, on being informed that the £14 would be paid during the day, remanded Pond till this morning.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Clarke, S.M., Edward Deane, 22, Norman McLeod, 44, and Charles Sherlock, 45, all seamen, were charged with having on September 28 embezzled ship's cargo. The accused, who at first pleaded not guilty, altered their plea to guilty. Deane was sentenced to three weeks' imprisonment and ordered to forfeit £1 out of his wages; McLeod was ordered to hand over £11 8s 10d, and was sentenced to 12 weeks' imprisonment; and Sherlock was ordered to refund £7 10s to the company and was sent to gaol for 12 weeks.

LATE MR. WALTER MORRICE.

Probate has been granted of the will of the late Mr. Walter Morrice, of Browley, Moss Vale, grazier, who died there on June 19 last. The net value of his estate is £21,372/13/3, most of which consists of realty. Testator appointed his sons, Frederick John and Herbert Bingmann Morrice, his executors and trustees. The estate was devised to the widow and children of the testator.

THE HARLEQUIN BUG.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Of vital importance to all those who have suburban gardens from which they hope to obtain a good supply of vegetables and fruit during the coming summer, is the appearance in great numbers of a most destructive pest, the Harlequin Bug, which may now be found almost anywhere round Sydney, sitting about on the leaves of mandarin and orange trees, or in other places which afford the necessary concealment. This is a broad shield-shaped bug, about half an inch long, with a vile rancid odour, and of a uniform bright green colour. As birds, lizards, spiders, and the various predatory insects all reject this detestable insect with disgust, there is nothing to keep it in check except adverse weather conditions. Following on two favourable summers, this bug became common in the Sydney district last year, and in Victoria it assumed the proportions of a very serious pest. Judging by its abundance this year, it promises to destroy nearly everything in our vegetable gardens, unless prompt measures are taken to deal with it. The eggs, to the number of a hundred or more from each pair, will be laid during this month, and the pest will begin to make its appearance in November, in the form of colonies of minute black bead-like bugs, which attack, amongst other things, French beans, tomatoes, and logan-berries, damaging them by sucking the sap, and by infecting them with a disgusting odour. As these bugs grow they spread over the whole crop, gradually changing in colour to a spotted black and yellow, thence to yellow and green, and finally to pure green; hence their name. Fortunately, if taken in time, the damage can be greatly minimised. The best plan is to get a small enamelled mug or pannikin, and half fill it with boiling water, into which is poured a spoonful of carbolic or other strong disinfectant. With this in one hand, and a twig or a pair of forceps in the other, the members of a family may make a tour of the garden, examining especially mandarin and orange trees; the bugs, when found, should be knocked into the mug, into which they will fall quickly enough when alarmed. In this manner I obtained to-day, in the course of a single hour, nearly two hundred pairs of these bugs, the progeny of which, if allowed to develop unchecked, would have totalled at least twenty thousand, and would have been sufficient to destroy the whole of the products of my garden. Half an hour spent each day in destroying the adult bugs, during the next week or two, will save many hours of toil and much valuable garden produce later on, as the young bugs are much more difficult to deal with, and usually do much damage before they are discovered. All who have gardens should combine to wipe this bug out during their spare hours; let it be a great offensive against this insect Hun, who will otherwise, in a very few years, make suburban gardeners curse their unlucky fates.

SOLDIERS AND DRINK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The allegation of the chairman of the Australian Prohibition Alliance (the Rev. R. B. S. Hammond), that drink is the cause of a very large number of men having been discharged from the army, is the subject of an official memorandum issued by the Defence Department. This document, after describing the statement as incorrect, goes on to say: "The monthly reports furnished by Major-General Legge, the latest dated July 31, 1918, show that only 75,501 members of the A.I.F. enlisted in Australia were discharged, deserted, or died. The reports contain no inference with regard to the use of drink, or any reference to it at all. Mr. Hammond's statement would naturally be taken as a military announcement, whereas it is untrue in all respects. The greater part of the total of the 75,501 consists of men discharged at the second, or pre-embarkation, medical examinations, on account of physical or other defects which were not discovered at the first examination."

Evidently Mr. Hammond, in attaching the vice of drunkenness to recruits rejected for physical reasons, has cast undeserved stigma upon men who were at least willing to serve their country, but lacked the necessary physique. I would like also to draw the attention of your readers to a remark made by Senator Millen, Minister for Repatriation, when addressing the Presbyterian Assembly in Melbourne on Tuesday. Senator Millen said: "There was no justification for a statement made by a most reputable public man, that unless we had prohibition four out of every five men repatriated would be valueless; that was an exaggeration. It was not fair to the soldier and not fair to the department."

I am, etc., FRANCIS BLIGH, President,
Liquor Trades Defence Union of N.S.W.

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

FASHION AS SHE IS.

DRESS AND ITS ACCESSORIES.

There is no doubt that the afternoon dress suitable for theatre or hotel wear supplies the want of the moment, when nearly all social entertainments are of the quietest order. These frocks are most fascinating, and prove an adjunct of the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. The new tunic and coatee effect is one of the foremost features of these garments. They may be carried out in light or dark colours. The new fabrics, in every instance, show the greatest originality and up-to-date styles as regards design, and simplicity is quite a foremost note in conjunction with individuality.

A very delightful model was in a soft material in a beautiful shade of grey. A tunic effect marked the frock with distinction, and long, transparent sleeves of crepe Georgette and revue collar and cuffs formed an additional attraction. Such a frock can be copied in inexpensive as well as more luxurious fabric, the former looking equally well. It proves a useful little gown, that may be worn in the afternoon or evening with equal success. The new, long flat-pleated designs are usually finished off with a rather wide waistbelt, which imparts a compact and becoming effect. A square-cut lace collar, weighted with tiny tassels, and arranged so that it falls below the waistline, cleverly introducing a simple coatee effect, is also an innovation.

Exquisite shades may be seen in the chosen materials. Lemon, pale pink, and tones of nattier blue are among the most popular; and purple-grey or black, although sober, are much to the fore. The all-black or black and white gowns are also in great demand.

The standard dress of the moment, in most instances, takes on the form of a tunic of some sort or another. There are a great many possibilities with these tunics, designed for day and evening wear, and they prove most useful to women, who are studying economy, and who find they can make last year's frocks absolutely up-to-date by the help of a well-chosen tunic or one of those long transparent coatees that certainly represent all that is new in the world of fashion. A very becoming example I noticed was in fine black ninon, inset with wide insertions, and fine black lace. This frock was made in full length, with long graceful sleeves. Most women are using up old black silk foundations, and making a tunic do duty for an afternoon indoor frock. A fringed hem to the tunic adds enormously to its novel effect. The smart three-quarter length coatee, made of net, and in some instances with embroidery arranged in long straight panels down the back and front, and showing the new wing sleeves, represents quite a Frenchy idea. In Paris these garments are quite the craze. Colour printed ninon coatees made in varying lengths are also popular.

The wraps that are worn with frocks are worth a special mention. There is a beautiful selection of these articles this season, and the majority of them are fashioned of fancy chiffon, and show Oriental colouring, finished with narrow fancy trimming. Other novelties of this sort include a variety of tulle, or ninon scarfs, seen in all colours, the edges successfully worked in coloured beads. One beautiful scheme for a wrap scarf was carried out in a delicately-coloured tulle, and either end was worked with large opal beads.

There is nothing that counts so much towards achieving a well-dressed appearance as the careful selection of all those little etceteras of fashion that add to the finishing touches to the toilette of to-day. These dress accessories, or shall I call them fripperies, are more important than the general woman imagines. Every kind of garment, from the plainest tailor-made to the more trimmed one-piece frocks for special wear, all call for the softening of delicate lace collars, cuffs, and those smart waistcoat effects which have become so very popular. Chemisettes of lace, ninon, and tulle are also among the fashionable dress accessories.

"MAISIE."

PRINCE ALFRED HOSPITAL JUBILEE.

A meeting was held in Farmer's tearooms yesterday afternoon to further arrangements in connection with the jubilee celebrations of Prince Alfred Hospital. Sir Robert Anderson occupied the chair, and in his opening address outlined the various schemes that had been suggested for raising funds towards the maintenance of the institution. The committee felt, said the speaker, that it was not justified in applying to the Government for aid, and that the patriotic organisations should have first claim in making a general appeal to the public by means of "days," but certain other suggestions had been made, and it was now proposed to select sub-committees to carry these schemes into effect.

Mr. Epps (general secretary of the hospital) briefly outlined the proposed methods for "extracting the mighty dollars," and stated that the committees were as follows:—Art union, publicity, badge, entertainment, donations, and district organisation. A number of representative men and women were selected to serve in each department. The headquarters of the committee is on the third floor, Bull's-chambers, Moore-street. Mr. Epps announced that several donations had already come to hand, including:—Anthony Hordern, £500; Mr. D. Benjamin, £100; Associated Racing Clubs, £100; Tattersall's Club, £100; Mr. J. J. Rouse, £250; Farmer and Co., £50; Marcus Clark and Co., £100 worth of furniture; Mrs. Trotter, £20; Paul and Gray, £25; W. C. H. Lippman, £10; Mr. J. E. Donoghue, £10; Motor in Australia, £10. The majority of these were given at the meeting. Mr. Epps stated that the hospital accounts showed a deficiency of £21,853 to June last, and since that time a further sum of £3500 had been spent. The expenses had considerably increased on account of the soldiers who were now treated there, and although the Defence Department made an allowance for the men, who number 100, it is not adequate. Beside the men now in residence, over 583 soldiers and their dependents have been treated at the hospital during the last year.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

The "at home" that was to have been held at the Catholic Women's Club on Monday has been postponed owing to the holiday, but a general meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, and members are requested to attend, as important business will be under discussion.

Mrs. W. J. White (Women's Home Industries) will conduct a stall in front of the "Sun" newspaper office on Soldiers' Dependents' Day, and gifts of money or in kind are urgently wanted, and may be left at the Women's Home Industries rooms, Victoria Arcade, or at the "Sun" office.

The Cronulla V.A.D. detachment recently entertained a number of guests at The Breakers, Cronulla, and during the evening Miss Kershaw was presented with a wedding gift, and the lady superintendent, Mrs. Robinson, was given a small memento in token of the Aids' appreciation of her valuable lectures on home nursing.

The 30th Battalion Comforts Fund has removed to new quarters at 307 George-street, opposite Messrs. Nock and Kirby.

The wedding was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, on August 24, of Mr. Neil McDonald, fifth son of the late Captain and Mrs. John McDonald, of Grafton, and Miss Beatrice Irene Ferrier, B.A., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ferrier, of Ashfield. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. T. Morgan, convener of home missions of the Presbyterian Church. The bridesmaid was Miss May Ferrier, sister of the bride; and the best man was Mr. E. B. Brodie, of Newcastle.

SHI-NOLEUM POLISHES AND PRESERVES LINOLEUM.

Shi-noleum is the best polish you ever used for linoleums, on which it also acts as a "food," filling up the little pores, preventing dryness and brittleness, and making the linoleum flexible and extremely durable.

Shi-noleum is also ideal for wood floors, furniture and tan leather goods.

If not in stock at your storekeeper's a FREE sample will be mailed you on request to The Paget Manufacturing Co., Ltd., 109 Regent-street, Sydney.

KOKO PROVED GOOD FOR DANDRIFF.

"I am delighted with Koko for the hair. I never used anything else that did not make my hair in an awful mess, so that the cleanness of Koko was quite a surprise to me, considering how good it is for Dandriff."

"The first bottle of Koko completely cured my head of Dandriff, from which I suffered greatly. It has also caused a fresh growth of hair." (Names given.)

PUBLIC NOTICES.

METROPOLITAN BOARD OF WATER SUPPLY AND SEWERAGE. Sydney, October 4, 1918.

It is hereby Notified, pursuant to the provisions of Section 2, Subsection (11) of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Act, Extension Act of 1894, that it is proposed to declare the Area comprised within the boundaries defined in the Schedule hereto, a Drainage Area under the said Act.

Schedule referred to:—

Description of an additional area in connection with the Munni-street to Shea's Creek Stormwater Channel, Government Contract No. 72, and the Macdonaldtown Park Stormwater Channel, Government Contract No. 75, proclaimed in Government Gazette No. 530, dated July 6, 1897.

All that area of land situated within the Municipality of Alexandria, Parish of Alexandria, County of Cumberland, commencing at a point on the South-western boundary of the Stormwater Drainage Area of "Shea's Creek and Branches" (proclaimed in Government Gazette No. 216, dated the 15th December, 1896), where the centre of the Shea's Creek Stormwater Channel (Government Contract No. 560) enters the Shea's Creek Canal; thence generally Northerly by the South-western and North-western boundary of that drainage area to the North-western building line of Mitchell-road, as follows:—"Thence North-westerly about 15 chains to the North-western corner of Euston-road and Huntley-street; thence North-westerly about 90 links along the North-eastern side of Huntley-street; thence North-easterly about 43 links by a line parallel to Euston-road; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Huntley-street, crossing Euston-lane to its North-western side; thence North-easterly about 30 links along the North-western side of Euston-lane; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Huntley-street to the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street; thence North-easterly about 264 links by the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street; thence South-easterly by a line parallel to Huntley-street to the North-western side of Euston-lane; thence North-easterly about 201 links by the North-western side of Euston-lane; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Huntley-street to the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street; thence North-easterly about 318 links by the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street; thence South-easterly about 72 links by a line parallel to Maddox-street; thence North-easterly about 70 links by a line parallel to Lawrence-street; thence North-westerly about 42 links by a line parallel to Maddox-street; thence North-easterly about 54 links by a line parallel to Lawrence-street; thence North-westerly about 30 links by a line parallel to Maddox-street to the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street; thence North-easterly by the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street to the South-western side of Maddox-street; thence South-easterly by the South-western side of Maddox-street to the centre of Euston-lane; thence North-easterly about 1090 links by the centre of Euston-lane, crossing Maddox-street; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Hartley-street to the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street; thence North-easterly by the South-eastern side of Lawrence-street to the centre of Hartley-street; thence North-westerly along the centre of Hartley-street to the prolongation of the centre of Lawrence-lane; thence North-easterly about 682 links by that prolongation and the centre of Lawrence-lane; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Fountain-street, and crossing Belmont-street to its North-western side; thence North-easterly about 572 links by the North-western side of Belmont-street; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Fountain-street to the South-eastern side of Jesmond-lane; thence North-easterly about 62 links by the South-eastern side of Jesmond-lane; thence North-westerly by a line parallel to Fountain-street, crossing Jesmond-lane and Mitchell-road to its North-western side;" which is also the South-eastern boundary of the Erskineville and Macdonaldtown Park Stormwater Drainage Area as proclaimed in Government Gazette No. 216, dated 15th December, 1896; thence by part of that boundary being the North-western side of Mitchell-road, South-westerly to its intersection with the South-western side of Copeland-street, which point is also on the Eastern boundary of the Erskineville and Munni-street Stormwater Drainage Area, as proclaimed in Government Gazette No. 530, dated the 6th July, 1897; thence by part of that boundary generally Southerly to the point of commencement as follows:—"Thence by the West side of Mitchell-road South-westerly to Harley-street; thence by the South side of Harley-street South-easterly to Lawrence-lane; thence by the West side of Lawrence-lane, South-westerly to Maddox-street; thence by the South side of Maddox-street South-easterly to Lawrence-street; thence by the West side of Lawrence-street South-westerly to Huntley-street; thence by the South side of Huntley-street South-easterly to Euston-street; thence by a line bearing South-easterly about 15 chains to the point of commencement."

The said area is shown on Plan marked "82" by red edging, and is now to be seen at the office of the Water and Sewerage Board, Pitt-street, Sydney, and at the office of the Town Clerk of the Municipality of Alexandria.

Any appeal against the boundaries of such area may be made by any person or body interested, to the Court of Petty Sessions, Redfern, within 30 days, and such appeals will be heard at the Court aforesaid on Thursday, 7th November, 1918, at 10 a.m.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.

Notice is hereby given that an Election of a Fellow by the graduates in the room of the late Sir Philip Sydney Jones, Kt., M.D., will be held on MONDAY, December 9th next, in accordance with the provisions of Section 3 of the University Amendment Act 1912, and the bylaws of the University made in pursuance of the provisions of that Act.

Under the bylaw no person will be eligible for election unless his name shall have been communicated to the Registrar under the hands of two qualified voters not earlier than MONDAY, October 28th, nor later than MONDAY, November 11th.

In the event of more than one candidate being proposed, the Election will be conducted by ballot, the Graduates voting personally or by voting papers transmitted through the post, as provided by bylaws.

The Ballot will be taken at the Rooms of the Royal Society, Elizabeth-street, Sydney, on MONDAY, December 9th, commencing at 10 a.m., and closing at 5 p.m.

VOTING BY POST.

Bylaw 16 (?) provides as follows:—At any time after the notification of the day of election, and not later than the third day before the day of election, a duly-qualified voter who desires to vote by post shall apply in writing for a voting paper to the Registrar, and thereupon the Registrar shall forward the voting paper to such applicant as soon as possible. All voting papers transmitted by post in accordance with the bylaws and received at the University not later than 5 p.m. on the day of election, will be counted in the ballot.

H. E. BARFF, Warden and Registrar.

ON THE LAND.

THE WINE INDUSTRY.

Yesterday morning General Pau, Commandant d'Andre, and M. Corbiere, of the French Mission, accompanied by the Chief Secretary, Mr. G. Fuller, and the Minister for Public Health and Local Government, Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, visited Messrs. Lindeman's wine cellars at the Victoria Markets, and sampled several types of Australian wines. The three visitors are all expert judges of wine. General Pau and Commandant d'Andre are both winegrowers in France, and consequently they were much interested. Samples of light and heavy wines, including chablis, hock, claret, and burgundy, were tasted, and the visitors spoke in high terms of the product. M. Corbiere stated that the wines were "fuller" than the French wines, but of excellent quality, and some were indeed better than the latter. A photograph of the oldest vineyard in Australia, Kirkton, which was planted in 1827, and a vine which had been taken from that vineyard were surveyed with interest. Inquiry was made as to the keeping quality of Australian wines, and the visitors were surprised to learn that it was practically unlimited, and that wine 45 years old in the bottle had been sent to England and returned to Australia, when it was found in excellent condition, only needing recorking to keep for another 40 years or more. Incidentally the question of the nomenclature of wines arose, the visitors not unnaturally suggesting that local names should be given to the different types. The point, of course, has been often discussed, and while there is much to recommend the establishment of local names, the great difficulties and disadvantages to effecting a change are obvious. Furthermore, the point can be fairly raised as to whether certain accepted types of wines, such as port, claret, and hock, have not a world-wide common acceptance which entitles a world-wide use. In the meantime it is gratifying to find such practical experts expressing a high opinion of the local wines.

The visit directs attention to the important question of the future of the wine industry and its development. The fact is unassailable both that we have all the natural facilities in soil and climate for the production of high-class wine and exceptional opportunities for developing it on a large scale. As a primary industry it is a profitable one, and very suitable for the settlement of soldiers on the land. It is practically the one industry that offers a guaranteed payable return to the settler. The leading wine firms, we understand, are prepared to enter into definite contracts to purchase the settler's product for a long term of years, as the former have a growing export trade to depend upon after the war. Quite recently, moreover, Messrs. Lindeman's have put an estate of 300 acres under offer to the Government as a gift for a soldier's settlement, and are prepared to supply cuttings as well as guarantee a price for the grapes. Other firms, we understand, are prepared to take similar action. Vine-growing is a safer industry than wheat, as it is not so subject to adverse seasons, while it means a greater expenditure per acre for labour than probably any other primary industry. Twenty acres of vines will return a comfortable livelihood amid pleasant surroundings. The industry, therefore, would appear to have more to recommend it than others that are being proposed or utilised for soldier settlers, and its claims should be considered most carefully by the Government.

CANE SUPPLY REDUCED.

The cane cutting season on the Northern Rivers is not nearly as brisk as usual, owing to the adverse planting conditions in 1916 and 1917. Probably the crushing on the Tweed River will not exceed 35,000 tons, and that on the Richmond 30,000 tons. Although there is a greater quantity of cane to be treated on the Clarence, there is also a shrinkage on that river too. The severe frosts experienced on the Northern Rivers last winter have caused some severe checks to the crops, and some of those growing on the upper parts of the rivers have suffered severely. Owing to the generally small cutting, many of the expert cane-cutters have this year gone to the Queensland fields. A heavier planting appears in prospect, as the weather is holding fine.

HERD-TESTING.

The Minister for Agriculture urges dairy farmers to keep the matter of herd-testing prominently before them. As soon as the occasion offers, the department will afford every possible assistance to any district or group of farmers that contemplates action. At the present time there is only one unit in existence in New South Wales for the testing of ordinary dairy herds, the war having rendered it a matter of the greatest difficulty to obtain suitable men for the work. The Department of Agriculture has been able, with its ordinary staff to continue the testing of stud herds in connection with the United Pure-bred Cattle Breeders' Association, it being felt that it is necessary to enable farmers to secure bulls, the performances of whose dams, granddams, sisters, and even daughters, are known.

It is officially considered that the interest farmers are displaying about testing in relation to their own milking cows, however, suggests that there is also an increasing recognition of the importance of testing to the ordinary milking herds. The cost to the farmer of testing is about 2/6 per cow per annum, in addition to which the department subsidises each unit (1200 to 1500 cows) to the extent of £30 per annum.

The year before the war the average production of the milking cows in this State was approximately 170lb butter per cow. Many indifferent cows are eating feed that would maintain better animals, and are occupying milkers' time that could be better spent. The high prices that culled cows are now realising for butchers' purposes might well be regarded as a profitable opportunity for the disposal of low producers.

What can be done in the way of improvement of herds has been evidenced by the Bangalow Testing Association on the North Coast. There an average of 241lb butter per cow in the year ended February, 1915, was increased, under the influence of testing, to 256½lb in 1917 and 255½lb in 1918 (a poorer season). If that improvement of 6 per cent. were extended throughout the State, it would mean a yearly addition of 10lb butter per cow to the 170lb State average, and in the aggregate it would represent a handsome sum to dairy farmers. On the 800,000 milking cows in New South Wales, it would mean an additional eight million pounds of butter, which at 1/2½ per lb would be worth over £400,000 to the producers, and even at the pre-war price of 10d over £300,000. Nor is there anything impossible about the figures. An improvement of 6 per cent. on the 170lb average of the State would be much more easily produced than 6 per cent. on the 241lb average of the best herds in one of the most progressive dairying centres in the State. To go no further than to weed out and dispose of all cows producing under, say, 150lb butter, would be sufficient to effect a very appreciable improvement in the average of our herds.

THE SHIPPING PROBLEM.

Dr. Richard Arthur, M.L.A., writes:—The cabled statement by Mr. Hoover regarding the further withdrawal of ships from the Australian trade spells ruin to the Australian wheat farmer, unless relief can be afforded him in another direction. The only possible way by which this can be done is by still further combing out a number of the ships now engaged in the interstate trade, and utilising them to carry wheat to 'Frisco, returning with a cargo of steel plates for shipbuilding, and of paper for the newspaper press. The Federal Government must take action at once in this matter, as the continued employment of large ships on the coast in unessential services is a scandal of ever-growing dimensions.

VITALITY OF WATTLE SEEDS.

At a meeting of the Royal Society on Wednesday, Mr. R. H. Cambage, in the course of a paper on acacia seedlings, related his experiments in testing the vitality of wattle seeds in sea-water, and stated that seeds of the mountain hickory and Tasmanian blackwood, both from Jenolan Caves, had germinated when planted, after having been immersed in sea-water for 469 days, while a seed of a prickly wattle from Queensland, Acacia farnesiana, had readily germinated after a sea-water bath of 1375 days, or about 3¾ years.

THE WHEAT CROP.

TULLAMORE.—The district at the present time is experiencing a very dry spell. The outlook for the crops is exceedingly bad. In many cases they are not in head, and others have withered right off. Tullamore and Burra stations have put sheep on to eat them off, and many of the farmers around are doing the same. It is hoped by eating them right down, that if a good heavy summer rain comes there will be a second growth, which perhaps might yield something. Stock are looking fairly well, although prices are easier, as no buyers are operating.

THE MAN WITHOUT A MEMORY.

BY A. W. MARCHMONT.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

CHAPTER XVIII.—Continued.

The interview had taken longer than I had expected, however, and after snatching a hasty meal in the first decent place I came to, I hurried to the Karlstrasse to fix up the final arrangements for our departure.

Nessa was as jubilant as I at the news of my success. "Rosa told me all you said and where you'd gone and that we were to go to-night. Oh, isn't it splendid," she exclaimed.

"You'll be ready?"

"Oh, no. I shall take care to miss the train, of course. Make a point of it," she cried, her eyes as bright as diamonds. "I shall have a cab, tell every one I'm going to England and—— How can you ask such a silly question, Jack?"

"Steady. Not that name till we're in Holland anyhow."

"Do you expect me to be steady at such a time, Herr Lassen?" with mock emphasis on the name.

"I shan't be Lassen after this, mind. This thing I've got in my pocket christens me Johann Liebe."

She laughed. "Let me look at it. I declare I could almost kiss it," she exclaimed, when I showed it to her. "And now we'll be sensible. What are my marching orders?"

"Flying orders, we call them. Well, I still hope we shall travel in state under Government patronage, and——"

"I hope not," she broke in. "I'd much rather go on the 'third wheel,' you know. It would be glorious fun. I don't want to have to scrap my disguise and have had all my trouble for nothing."

"That's all right; but the other wheel's both safer and quicker, thank you. All the same you'd better bring the props along in case things go wrong. One never knows. Do you want to bother with any luggage?"

"A comb and a toothbrush, a few hairpins and a pair of scissors. That too much?"

"Rather not; but why scissors?"

"You don't want your assistant to have long hair, do you? And it might be injudicious to worry a barber."

We both laughed. "I never thought of that. By jove, it would be a beastly shame to have to cut off that lovely wig of yours." She had most beautiful hair of a rich dark auburn.

"A thousand times better than an internment camp," she replied, sobered by the mere thought of it. But only for the moment; she was too wildly excited at the prospect of going home for anything to damp her spirits. "Why, I'd do it only to play the part of Hans Bulich for an hour."

"Who's Hans Bulich?"

"Your assistant that hopes to be, of course. You're surely not going to begin by forgetting essentials?"

"I had forgotten for the moment."

"Well, don't forget again. Shall I spell it for you?"

"Don't give me any of your lip, Hans," I retorted smartly.

"All right, matey, keep your hand on the brake," she replied in her excellent assistant's tone; and worked in a number of motor parts to show she had been swotting them up as I had suggested.

"You'll do, boy," I said, laughing. "And now let's remember this isn't going to be all mere chaff;" and I told her my plan. She was to be at the station a quarter of an hour before the train started, and look out for me in the waiting-room. "If things go right with von Gratzen, that'll be the ladies' room; if not, then the third class. I'll manage to 'phone you in time for the necessary make-up. As for the rest, it's up to us to manage the best we can."

"If we have to go disguised, are you going to risk the mail train then?"

"There won't be any risk to speak of now that I've got this;" tapping my pocket. "Of course, we can't go all the way because I haven't a passport; but we'll get as near the frontier as we can. Osnabruck, probably; but I'll have the tickets all right. And now I must be off."

"I wish my silly heart wouldn't beat like a racing 40 h.p., but I'll have it in good order when we meet again."

"It's a good thing I don't make it beat, eh?"

"Hands off, matey," replied "Hans," but with a very unboylike blush.

"You must drop that habit, young 'un. You've got to think about other 40 h.p.'s, you know;" and with that I went, little thinking of all that was to happen before we met again.

I hurried to my rooms to put the final touches to my preparations; pack the one or two trifles I needed for the journey; make sure that no inquisitive eyes had discovered my hidden suit case; and have everything ready for instant departure.

This did not take more than a few minutes, and I had just finished and was replacing the suit case in its hiding place when the telephone rang.

"Hullo?" I asked, wondering who could want to call me up.

"Herr Lassen?" came in a woman's voice, I did not know.

"Yes. What is it?"

"I'm to tell you Anna Hilden wants to see you at once."

"Who is speaking?" There was no answer, and none again when I repeated the question. Who could it be? And the meaning of it? It certainly wasn't Anna's voice, although the 'phone has a trick at times of changing the voice considerably.

It was still nearly an hour before the time she had fixed for me to go to her, and I couldn't understand how she could have got hold of my telephone number. But she wouldn't have telephoned if it hadn't been urgent. It looked as if she had made up her mind at last to admit everything, and the sooner I had the confession the better chance there was of catching von Gratzen at his office. So I hurried off, was lucky enough to get a taxi, and reached her place within ten minutes of getting her message.

To my surprise the door of her flat was ajar. Not perhaps an unusual thing, considering that she was a somewhat casual person. I pressed the electric bell, and heard it ring all right; but she didn't come to the door. Probably slipped out for something, I concluded; and after a second ring, I pushed the door wide, and went in.

She was not in the sitting-room, and I was just dropping into a chair to wait for her, when a glance through the open door of the adjoining bedroom brought my heart up into my mouth, as if I'd come on an air pocket a thousand feet deep.

She was lying asprawl on the bed in a most unnatural attitude.

In a second I was in the room, and knew the truth.

She was dead, and the marks on her throat could only mean one thing.

"Murder!"

CHAPTER XIX.
MURDER.

Some horror-filled moments passed before I grasped the full significance to me of the unfortunate woman's death. I turned dizzy and bewildered like a drunken man, and could do nothing but just stare at the body, literally stupefied by the suddenness of it.

It wasn't the fact of death that startled me; I had seen too many dead bodies at the front to be much concerned. But I had never before seen any one who had been murdered; some one whom I had spoken to only an hour or two before.

But I made a big effort to pull myself together. I examined her to be certain that she was really dead, for the body was still warm. There was no doubt about it. The poor thing had been choked, and the marks of the murderer's fingers showed on her throat.

There had been a struggle in the room, and some of the wretched furniture had been overturned. My wits were beginning to clear by that time; and I was glancing about the room wondering who had been brute enough to commit the murder and what I had better do, when I made a discovery that told me everything and turned the blood in my veins icy cold.

In examining the body I had disarranged the bedclothes slightly, and by the side of the neck, just where it would have fallen from the murderer's finger, lay a ring.

Von Erstein's! The puzzle ring he had once shown and explained to me! It was impossible to mistake it; and there was probably not another ring like it in Berlin.

I didn't lose my head that time; the instinct of self-preservation was too strong to allow of any other feeling. My one absorbing thought was to get away before any one could come.

I darted back into the sitting-room and snatched at my hat, which I had left on the table. In my hurry I fumbled. It fell to the floor and rolled under the table; and when I grabbed for it again, the quaint little card case which Rosa had given me lay open beside it.

Too obsessed by the desire to get out of the place, I had no other feeling than a faint satisfaction at finding it again; not realising for an instant the full significance of the incident I pocketed the thing, picked up my hat and left the flat. I took care to shut the door; this would serve to postpone the discovery of the murder; went down the staircase without undue hurry, made sure there was no one to see me leave, walked leisurely away until I turned the first corner and then made off at a rapid pace.

ONE BIG UNION.

The Electrical Trades Union has decided to oppose the "One Big Union" scheme. The Blacksmiths' Society has also decided not to have anything to do with the proposal.

On Active Service.

M'LEOD.—A tribute to the memory of our dear nephew and cousin, Gunner D. M'Leod, killed in action, October 4, 1917. Inserted by Mr. and Mrs. J. M'Leod, Hurlstone Park.

MANNING.—October 2, 1918, at his residence, 75 Denison-street, Rozelle, Charles, dearly-beloved husband of Georgina Manning, aged 68 years. R.I.P.

MASSEY.—In loving memory of Signaller Theo. A. Massey, 4th Batt., killed in action, October 4, 1917.

MASTON.—In proud and loving memory of our dear son and brother, Sergeant Hal. Maston, M.M., 3rd Batt., killed in action, at Broodseinde, October 4, 1917, aged 20½ years.
Altho. he sleeps in a cold grave afar,
His spirit cannot die, tho' he be dead;
The young, the brave, the noble, the dearly loved;
And tho' he passed in all his pride and power,
With steadfast tread down the sunset track
To Glory's gates.
In memories' hallowed hour he shall come back,
And shall give in place of heart distress,
To kith and kin, all tear worn and sorrow sore;
A sense of reverence and of sacredness,
To stir our blood to deeds of worth,
and shall come home and hearten us.
Inserted by his loving parents and sisters and brothers.

MASTON.—In fond memory of my dear friend, Sergeant H. W. (Hal) Maston, M.M., who was killed October 4, 1917, in France.
Mild and gentle as he was brave,
When the sweetest love of his life he gave.
Think of him still as the same, I say,
He is not dead—he is just away.
Inserted by his sincere friend, Thelma Wild.

MASTON.—In loving memory of my dear friend, Harold Maston, killed in action October 4, 1917. Inserted by C. S. Blanton (returned).

MEEKS.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Jack, who was killed in action on October 4, 1917, somewhere in France. Sadly missed.
Far away from all who loved him,
In a hero's grave he lies;
Although his body resteth,
His memory never dies.
Inserted by his loving mother, father, and sisters, Catherine and James Meeks.

MEEKS.—In loving memory of our dear brother, Private Jack (Finny) Meeks, killed in action October 4, 1917. Inserted by his loving brother and sister, Will and Rene.

MESSELL.—In loving memory of our dear father, Captain C. F. Messell, who departed this life October 4, 1916, aged 79 years.
While he lies in silent sleep
His memory we will always keep.
Inserted by his loving children, Charles, Albert, Fred, George, and Arthur Messell, and daughter, Ada Timms.

METCALF.—A tribute to the memory of Private William Metcalf, 2nd Batt., killed in France, October 4, 1917. Inserted by his friend, N. Tupper.

MILLS.—In sad and loving memory of my dear husband and my dear daddy, Sergeant William H. Mills, killed in action in France, October 4, 1917.
Too far away your grave to see,
But not too far to think of thee.
Sadly missed by his loving wife and little son, Nellie and Willie Mills, Auburn.

MILLS.—In loving memory of Sergeant William H. Mills, killed in action, France, October 4, 1917.
From memory's page we'll never blot,
Three little words, forget you not.
Inserted by his loving mother and brothers, Mrs. White, Jack, Charlie, and Ernest (prisoner of war).

MILLS.—In loving memory of Sergeant William H. Mills, killed in action, France, October 4, 1917.
His heart was good, his spirit brave;
His resting place a hero's grave.
Inserted by his loving sister and brother-in-law, Lily and George Hunter, and little niece, Jean.

MOLLOY.—In memory of Pte. Eric Molloy, 1st Batt., killed Passchendaele, October 4, 1917. A young life nobly ended. Inserted by his mate, Baden (O.A.S.), and Mrs. Roy and family, Mrs. Griffiths, Mrs. Wilson and family.

MORGAN.—In memory of Gunner John Phillip Morgan, late of 36th Heavy Artillery Group, A.I.F., who died of wounds at Ypres, Belgium, October 4, 1917. Nephew of W. H. Champion, Camperdown, T. S. Champion, Wahroonga, and Mrs. H. Hirst, Middle Park, Melbourne.

Just one sad year has now gone past
Since that great sorrow fell;
Yet in our hearts we mourn the loss
Of him we loved so well.
When alone in my sorrow, and bitter tears flow,
There stealeth a dream of a dear long ago;
And, unknown to the world, he stands by my side,
And whispers, dear mother, death cannot divide.
Inserted by his loving parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Parsons, Harris-street, Mascot.

ROSS SMITH.—In loving memory of my dear husband, No. 3010, L.-corp. Ross Smith, 3rd Batt., who was killed in action October 4, 1917, at Ypres, aged 36.
Somewhere in France, no matter where,
My husband was just as near to heaven
As though he had laid on his bed at home
When the signal to cease was given.
He has borne his cross, he has gained his crown,
Though he lies in a far-off grave.
And I think of his life, a duty done
Manly, unselfish, and brave.
My husband is sleeping his last long sleep,
And his grave I may never see,
But some gentle hand in that distant land
May scatter some flowers for me.
Inserted by his sorrowing wife, Ianthe.

ROSS SMITH.—In loving memory of Lance-corp. Ross Smith, killed in action, October 4, 1917, beloved son-in-law of George and Lena Kinnear, and brother-in-law of Roy, Donald, Arthur, and Lena.
Gone he is our loved one now,
Gone he is where all must go.
Gone where summer showers leave green the sod on our lad's grave;
Wintry winds there whistle shrill—else about him all is still.

ROWLING.—In sad and loving memory of Sergeant Walter Liscombe Rowling, of the 38th Battalion, who was killed in action in France on October 4, 1917, aged 21 years.

The Fight For Freedom !

You cannot buy freedom with money, but money will help to preserve it.

Hundreds of men are dying every day for freedom. Hundreds of women, despite their anguish, are daily sending forth their dearest to make, perhaps, the last sacrifice.

Australia has had her share of both sacrifice and glory.

The men who have gone forth from her shores have not hesitated to risk their lives, so that freedom may live and their country be preserved from slavery.

Let us not hesitate to lend our money.

Lend for Liberty !

The nominal rate of interest on the War Loan is 5 per cent., but the rate is actually 5¼ per cent. The Banks will aid subscribers by making advances at 4 per cent. Small sums may be put into War Savings Certificates. Full information at all Banks and Post Offices.

Commonwealth Treasury, 4th October, 1918.

W. A. WATT, Treasurer.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1918.

RELENTLESS PRESSURE.

In a daily record of success there is a danger of underestimating the nature of the struggle now being carried on in France. It varies in intensity, but plainly there is one part of the front on which it is of the most desperate character. The Germans are making every possible sacrifice to retain Cambrai and the line of communications in its neighbourhood. For this purpose they have brought troops from points on their front which earlier in the war would have been defended to the utmost. To some extent the battle has fluctuated. Occasionally the picked troops of the enemy have driven the Allies from their new lines. On the whole the balance of results is entirely in favour of the Allies, none of their gains having been recovered by the enemy for any appreciable time. None the less we must expect to hear that these attacks have been terribly costly to regiments already almost exhausted by a battle of six consecutive months. Troops from Great Britain, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand have been engaged with the French and Americans in this struggle for the towns of St. Quentin and Cambrai, and the adjoining lines. All with the possible exception of the Americans have been fighting without any adequate rest since the end of March. It is one of the recurring miracles of this war that men who have made more than human exertions can return and fight each with the strength of ten. To-day the stake is high enough to encourage any sacrifice. The reward which the Allies are seeking is the early end of the war. The Germans are fighting not to hold their positions in France, but to save their armies from disaster and their annexed territories from invasion. The battles round Cambrai and St. Quentin threaten one of their communications with Belgium, the attack east of the Argonne threatens the other. The Germans have fought steadfastly for the line which protects their centre, from the heights of the Aisne to Verdun. But these attacks on their wings are of a vital importance. They threaten to let in the Allied armies and to bring about in the gulf between the two rivers a renewal of the open fighting which this defence of the Hindenburg line was intended to prevent. Nothing else would explain the slight opposition to the advance of the Allied armies in Flanders. The Belgians threaten to drive the enemy from their coast and thereby to deprive them of the use of their submarine bases at Bruges and Ostend. The British are advancing to the liberation of the manufacturing districts of Lille, Turcoing, and Roubaix. Some high official appears to have thought that if the Germans now, after four years, retired within their own borders they would prove themselves innocent of any policy of aggression. There is, however, a more practical motive for retirement. It is probable that these important, though subsidiary, lines have not been adequately defended because the German army is insufficient for its task. Cambrai must be held because the Hindenburg line is essential to the defence of the German army. The Belgian ports would be indispensable to a successful submarine campaign. Lille and the adjoining towns have been for four years the victims of a policy of plunder and slavery. They may be given up when Germany resigns herself to leaving the war with her own territories intact, and with Russia as her trophy. The German method has failed again, though it has come within an inch of victory. The nation which throws its whole exisiting strength into every blow must succeed immediately or fail utterly. The Germans three times attacked with all the strength that could be utilised, and successively came just short of Amiens, the Channel ports, and Paris. Four years ago when the same policy failed within sight of victory they were able to build lines behind which to recuperate for further efforts. To-day they will not be able to do so if the generalship, the courage, and the equipment of the Allies can prevent them.

The same dearth of troops is revealed in the disasters to Turkey and Bulgaria in spite of the promise to occupy Bulgaria again. Neither of the Central Powers could have delayed its reinforcements had there been any available. The Allies have now surrounded Damascus and are advancing up the coast from Jaffa. The main Turkish base is in their hands, and they will shortly have possession of a Levantine port in which the French have always had an especial interest. Turkey has a motive for remaining in the war which Bulgaria had not, since the Allies are bound to deprive her of some of her provinces and to emancipate numbers of her subjects. She has another motive in her rivalry with Bulgaria, which was accentuated at the last treaty of Bucharest. Turkey recovered surreptitiously her ancient capital, Adrianople, after the second Balkan War. She lost its outer suburb as a bribe extorted under German pressure to persuade Bulgaria to intervene. For many months past her claim for its restoration and for a better frontier have aroused complaints in both countries which German diplomatists have been unable to reconcile. There is nothing improbable in the rumour that Bulgarian officers have offered to fight against Turkey. The two countries are enemies by nature, allies only by accident. A tradition of the bitterest hatred survived from the massacres of 1878 was intensified by oppression and agitation in Macedonia and culminated in the second Balkan War. It is more difficult to understand how the Turks can resist than why the Bulgarians should attack. The Allies have said that they no longer wish to retain Constantinople for themselves, but they may capture it, and they may present a rival candidate in the Greek. It may be remembered that one of the excuses of the Greeks for not joining the Allies at the beginning of the war was the refusal of the Czar to allow them to attack Constantinople. The Turks are for a second time invaded from Europe, for the first time they have to find their own material and their own reinforcements. If they fail they will part with the concessions which Germany gained before the war, and some of the fruits of the two treaties of this year. The failure of Turkey in the Balkan wars was the reason given by the Germans for increasing their army and their treasure, its failure in this would be the best proof possible that both men and treasure from Germany are exhausted.

TRADE WITH FRANCE.

How can the trade between France and Australia be increased? To advise on that question is part of the duty of the French Mission now in Australia, and the difficulties which surround the question were well put by the economic delegation of the Mission which visited the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. At present, of course, there is little trade. France has too much on hand defending her soil to engage in trade. All her industry is turned to producing the wherewithal to fight, and what she cannot produce she has to buy of other countries by mortgaging her future. Thus the exchanges are against her, and what she does buy she buys dearly. But the day is coming when France will once more be an industrial nation, when she will take her place again in the world as a land of artistic and durable manufactures, producing goods with the hands of workmen and through the organisation of captains of industry who both have behind them centuries of experience and skill. So she will want raw materials, and for them she will pay with her manufactured products. What have we to give her, and what have we to receive from her? We have wheat and wool and meat, or rather those principally are what she wants. Before the war she was our best customer for wool outside the United Kingdom. France took from us 30 per cent. of the wool we exported, and that merino wool. Now she is desirous when she has her woollen mills restored of increasing that amount which she formerly took by receiving some of our crossbred wools. Wheat, too, she will require, because it will be long years before the battle-scarred fields of the north yield their normal crops; and meat also will be wanted, because the flocks and herds of France are sadly depleted. But we have metals and fats and oils, too, to offer France, and, as we develop our tropical possessions the oils should form a large item in our trade. What shall we take in return?

The delegates fully recognise that it is our desire to manufacture here as much as we can for our own requirements, and, of course, they would not suggest that we should do otherwise. But where there is selling there must be buying. There are many articles which we do not manufacture, and which we shall not make for many years, if at all. Each country has manufactures in which it excels. So we shall turn to France for many lines of softgoods, of the fine woollens and the silks and cottons, for some varieties of perfumery, for some brandy and some olive oil, and not forgetting motor cars. Before the war France bought of Australia about £9,000,000 worth of goods a year, and France sold to Australia about £2,250,000. Germany sold to us £7,000,000. When the war is over why should not we transfer to France the custom which we formerly gave to Germany? The nations which have stood together with France in this struggle for liberty should not dissolve partnership as soon as the struggle in blood is finished. It is surely meet that we should stand together in peace, and that those countries which have not suffered from the ravages of war should help those which have suffered. That French manufactures have played so small a part comparatively in our trade may be, as Dr. Siegfried confessed yesterday, due to the French manufacturer being too conscious of the value of his manufacture. He knew its worth, and he thought that if the buyer wanted such an article he would come for it. But to-day in the business world the seller has to publish what he has to sell, he has to seek out a buyer. Trade must be pushed if it is to succeed. That is what the Germans understood and what the French neglected. If France would establish in Australia a commercial agency where Australian buyers could learn exactly what France has to offer and how they could get into touch with French sellers of the particular lines they require, and if more of the trade were a direct trade—before the war only one-third of the imports came direct from France—great advantages would result. Our men in France know the French as none of us here know them. We want the intercourse which has commenced strengthened. We want more of the French spirit to leaven our own. One method, perhaps the chief method, of accomplishing that desire is by improving trade relations between the two countries.

DEPARTING TROOPS.

Another little band of departing troops swung through the city streets yesterday to the accompaniment of stirring music. Lieut. Wilson, staff officer in charge of reinforcements, gave it as his opinion that they are one of the finest batches of men who have passed through the Liverpool camp. Their appearance confirmed it.

The general service reinforcements on parade yesterday numbered 150. After traversing the principal thoroughfares, they returned to the Central Railway Station, where they were dismissed for half an hour, for the purpose of a final leave-taking with relations and friends, prior to entraining for Melbourne. Lusty cheers broke out over the crowd as the train moved out, and from 150 strong throats there boomeranged back, and echoed and re-echoed over the station, messages of good cheer to folk left behind. They were affecting scenes, but if there were eyes that were dimmed with tears, the shadows soon disappeared behind the burst of cheering that rang out from the train and spread its infectious way back to the troops. Accompanying the men are Major J. T. Smith and Lieut. Macgillouddy.

The Headquarters Liverpool Band headed the men through the streets. W.O. Mellor's instrumentalists played selections along Martin-place, when the strains of another band alongside the destroyer in Moore-street were also heard. It was the Gallipoli Memorial Band, which was readily allowed to play the men through the latter thoroughfare. Further along were musical parties—elderly men and girls, glad of the opportunity to drop their office pens and to lift their voices in honour of the passing troops. From windows high aloft, and from trays and baskets, all sorts of little tokens were poured into the men's hands. Here there were dainty bouquets; there, cigarettes or chewing gum; further along were baskets of oranges and other fruit. There was little cheering along the route. There was a tremendous lot of giving, which, no doubt, with all the kindness of heart at the back of it, made a readier appeal to the men than the same volume of cheering would have done. Here and there, and more especially in Martin-place and Moore-street, were women arranged on each side of gaily-decorated arches, each with her tray of fruit, tobacco, and other gifts. These little things, the outpourings of admiring hearts, departing troops will think of when the cheers have died away.

WAR LOAN.

To-day, at 1.30, from the Destroyer in Moore-street, the honour flags won so far in the Seventh War Loan quota contests will be presented.

The central committee is endeavouring to ascertain with greater accuracy than has heretofore been possible the actual number of subscribers to the loan. In certain cases business houses in previous issues sent in applications for big sums, which really represented a great number of small subscribers who were purchasing through their employers under the instalment system. The heads of firms taking this course for the present loan are being urged to send details of all subscribers with the applications for the total amount they intend to take up.

At Merriwa the local committee is working on a basis of a house-to-house canvass. This close combing is necessary if the full financial power of any centre is to be represented. Dogan Gate and Trundle have challenged one another, and a telegram from Trundle, received by the organising secretaries yesterday, stated: "We have over £5000 in hand."

At Granville the Church of England trustees, who had in hand a sum of money for the building fund, decided to forego this work, and invest the amount available in the War Loan. When the war is over, and peace comes again, the building will be gone on with. At Henty one man, Mr. D. J. Stibbard, has set himself the task of obtaining 100 subscriptions to the loan. Yesterday he applied to the central committee for 25 more forms.

The central committee was informed yesterday that Delegate has £4500 in hand or promised, and a request was made that the town should be fitted into the honour-flag scheme. It is pointed out, however, that this is impossible outside the municipal and shire areas.

In Sydney yesterday 155 applications for a total of £20,601 were received, and on the Destroyer over £1500 was applied for in response to the appeals of the various speakers. To-day, in addition to the presentation of the honour flags, addresses will be delivered from the Destroyer and the Tank by prominent public speakers, and by those who receive the honour flags on behalf of their districts.

The Destroyer will be illuminated to-night, and speeches will be delivered. The movement to assist soldiers' relatives to subscribe by paying £1 deposit on a £10 bond will be carried further. The band will play from 7.30, and the Commonwealth Bank will be open for the transaction of War Loan business.

Yesterday the organising secretaries received encouraging news from the country. Lismore telegraphed, "Total to date, £36,000." The quota is £40,000. Inverell, which was called upon to raise £30,000, telegraphed yesterday that £45,720 was in hand, that the shire of Macintyre had also exceeded its quota, and that there were 450 applications in the district. Alderman Pickard, the Mayor of Bowral, telegraphed that the quota of £27,500 had been reached, and that they were going strong for the bars and stars of a complete honour flag. Gunnedah, which has combined with Liverpool Plains, and has a total quota of £22,000 to raise, has already that sum in hand, which includes one subscription of £15,000, which has been paid in anonymously. Bega is still going strong, and at 1 p.m. yesterday had £21,400 in hand, which was £11,400 in excess of its quota. Merriwa yesterday had £11,800 in hand out of its quota of £20,000.

Arrangements have been made for a combined meeting at Bondi Junction this evening, in support of the war loan.

PREJUDICIAL UTTERANCES.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Under an amended War Precautions regulation issued to-day, it is an offence for any person to spread reports or make statements that are likely to prejudice the raising by the Commonwealth of any war loan. Any person who, without authority, destroys, injures, disfigures, or removes any advertisement or notice relating to any war loan shall be guilty of an offence.

INVALID SOLDIERS.

ARRIVING TO-MORROW.

Another contingent of invalid soldiers will arrive by special train from Melbourne to-morrow morning, and friends and relations who have received tickets marked "F" from the Staff Officer for Invalids will be admitted to the Anzac Buffet at 9.50 a.m. to meet the New South Wales men. Names of cot cases, if any, will be posted at the buffet as soon as the train arrives, and relations may meet them at the hospital.

The Queenslanders will be taken to Rose Hall, where they will have lunch, and leave by train at 3.30 p.m. The Voluntary Aids on duty will be:—Train, Albury to Sydney: Glebe Men's V.A.D. Train, Sydney to Brisbane: Epping Men's V.A.D. Meeting train: Bronte V.A.D. Anzac Buffet: Lewisham V.A.D., with Mosman, under Miss Evans, in charge. Queenslanders' lunch at Rose Hall: Western Suburbs V.A.D.

Motor cars numbered on the Red Cross register from 459 to 555 are required to be at Chalmers-street entrance to the railway station at 9.40 a.m., and cars numbered from 556 to 575 are required to be at Rose Hall at 2.15 p.m.

The honorary organiser of Strong Posts, Mr. Downs Johnstone, announces that the procession will be formed in Eddy-avenue, and, headed by the Headquarters Military Band, will start at 10 a.m., proceeding along the usual route, via Rawson-place, George-street, Martin-place, Moore-street, Castlereagh-street, Bligh-street, Bent-street, and entering the Domain in Macquarie-street for the Anzac Buffet.

Strong Post committees are requested to assemble in full force at their respective stations, and bands will be placed at different points en route. Proprietors of business houses and public buildings are requested to decorate and befiag their premises.

A.L.P. BALLOT.

MORE UNIONS OPPOSED.

EXECUTIVE PERTURBED.

The Electrical Trades Union has decided not to participate in the recruiting ballot of the A.L.P., but, on the other hand, has resolved to invest £500 in the Commonwealth Seventh War Loan.

The Federated Storemen and Packers' Union, at its last meeting, discussed the motion carried at the interstate conference of the A.L.P. It was decided not to take part in the ballot.

The Blacksmiths' Society has also decided to return the ballot papers unopened.

It was stated in Labour circles yesterday that the executive of the A.L.P. is very much perturbed over the manner in which the unions are deciding not to have anything to do with the ballot. A circular has been issued to the secretaries of the A.L.P. branches and unions. It states that a resolution had been carried by the executive to the effect that all branches, and unions affiliated, were expected to arrange for taking a ballot on the Perth Conference proposals. It added that it was clearly contrary to the party's constitution for any section of the movement to refuse to carry out the decisions of the interstate conference, which was the highest tribunal of the movement for the whole of Australia.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Lady Davidson, accompanied by Mrs. Swinson, yesterday met the Parramatta branch of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Wives and Mothers in Dr. Williamson's garden at Parramatta.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by Captain Saltmarshe, presided at the annual meeting of the night refuge and soup kitchen yesterday afternoon.

His Excellency and Lady Davidson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Swinson, and attended by Captain Stanham, were present at the concert given in honour of the French Mission in the Sydney Town Hall last night.

Mr. Holman, Premier, proposes to accompany the members of the French Mission on their visit to Burrinjuck dam and the Yanco irrigation area. He will leave Sydney on Saturday night, returning on Tuesday next.

Captain A. W. Pearse has received a private cable message stating that his son, Lieutenant Ernest W. Pearse, who is with the London Rifle Brigade in Palestine, and who holds the Croix de Guerre (with palms), has been granted six months' leave of absence. He enlisted in September, 1914, and has been wounded twice.

Mr. Frank Farnell has just received news that his eldest son, Frank, has been severely wounded on active service in France. A younger son, Stanley (one of the original Anzacs), was killed at Lone Pine.

Messrs. Edmund Patrick Wallis and Oliver Claude Raymond, having succeeded in the recent examination, have been recommended by the Surveyors' Board for appointment as licensed surveyors.

FIERCE STRUGGLE IN WEST

BIG ENEMY RETIREMENT EXPECTED

Owing to the loss of St. Quentin and other positions on the same front a big enemy retirement is foreshadowed, particularly if the weather favours continued Allied pressure.

The Germans apparently are still stubbornly contesting the possession of Cambrai, and an unofficial report of its fall is not confirmed.

Sir Douglas Haig states that the British have breached the Fonsomme-Beaurevoir line (north-east of St. Quentin) and captured more villages.

PERFORATED HINDENBURG LINE.

LONDON, Oct. 2.

The United Press Agency in London says it is believed the Allies have taken Cambrai.

Intense fighting continues in the Cambrai sector. A German retirement on a big scale is confidently expected, unless the weather helps the Germans like in 1916.

The correspondent of the United Press telegraphs: The Hindenburg system has become a sieve. It will soon be a memory and open warfare on a scale similar to the first invasion will be made possible. The British 9th Corps, co-operating with the Australians on the right, smashed the German resistance along the main line, and traversed the supporting trench system called the Beaurevoir line, taking Beaurevoir, Wancourt, and Sequehart. This enabled the French to advance straight eastward above St. Quentin, cutting off the latter and compelling its evacuation. The French found it necessary to pierce the Hindenburg system only on a narrow front, the Germans getting out of the trenches which form a semi-circle in front of the city.

St. Quentin has been one of the real bastions of a long super-defensive system. Its fall might have happened two days earlier in connection with the American-Australian drive, but the unexpected strength of the Germans in the vicinity of Vendhuille, enabling them to force a wedge between the Americans who had gone ahead and the Australians following, requiring the latter to spend two days mopping up, delayed the plan. Finally the Australians made a complete job of it as was shown by the occupation of the Beaurevoir line and the capture of Vendhuille.

Some of the finest fighting in the whole operation was that of the British 46th Division and part of the 9th corps, which was following the Americans. The first rush on Sunday broke the Hindenburg line on the adjoining sector. They maintained the alignment and took 4000 prisoners.

With fires burning in Cambrai, and the city believed to be heavily mined, three great underground chambers there offering the Germans an unexampled opportunity for mining, the Allies are still avoiding a direct assault. Seventeen hundred prisoners were taken in the capture of Crevecoeur and Rumilly with all the heights north-east of these places.

Sir Douglas Haig, reporting at noon on Wednesday, stated: After maintaining strong pressure earlier in the day, the 32nd Division successfully attacked in the afternoon the centre of the German defensive line from Fonsomme to the neighbourhood of Beaurevoir. We captured Sequehart and Preselles, and breached the Fonsomme-Beaurevoir line. Northwards we cleared Joncourt of the enemy. The Australians completed the capture of the enemy's defences south of Le Catelet and Gouy.

South of Cambrai a fierce struggle throughout the day terminated by a successful attack at dusk, whereby the New Zealanders, English, and Scottish troops drove out the enemy from Crevecoeur and Rumilly, and established themselves on the high ground to the east and north of those villages.

Several hundred prisoners were captured in these operations.

FRENCH REPORTS.

A French communique issued on Wednesday afternoon stated: In St. Quentin a very lively action occurred at night-time, the enemy being thrown over to the east bank of the canal, where he resists energetically.

Between the Aisne and the Vesle we gained fresh advantages west of Reims. We hold Poutlion, Phil, and the southern outskirts of Villers Franquez. St. Thierry Massif is in our hands. We have also gained ground north of Neuvillette, and carried our lines to the southern outskirts of Bethemy.

During the night the situation in the Champagne was unchanged.

AMERICAN PROGRESS

According to a Washington message the Americans are making good progress in the Argonne forest. The enemy is withdrawing on the American left towards the Kriemhilde line.

An American communique states that a partial count of the captures of the past week includes 150 guns of all calibres, 750 trench mortars, 300 machine-guns, 100 heavy anti-tank guns, thousands of shells, and hundreds of thousands of rounds of ammunition.

The Germans are retreating across the Aisne canal, and the French are pursuing them.

GERMAN OFFICIAL REPORT.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message on Wednesday afternoon stated: We withdrew parts of our salient lines near St. Quentin, north-west of Reims, and west of the Argonne. The enemy gained a footing in Ledeghem. Our counter attack regained the eastern part.

On the fifth day of the Cambrai battle we repulsed seven assaults north of Sancourt, and further south the enemy advanced beyond Abancourt, Bantigny, and towards Cuvillers. Our counter attack drove him back beyond Abancourt and Bantigny. The enemy's assault broke down at and south of Cambrai.

The enemy captured Rumilly, and occupied St. Quentin. We withdrew from the Vesle and north-westward of Reims.

PROGRESS IN FLANDERS.

Amsterdam reports state that British warships again bombarded the Belgian coast on Tuesday night. A great fire was observed in the direction of Bruges and Les Nouvelles.

According to reports received in New York, the British have captured Rolleghemcapelle and advanced three miles south-east of Roulers. The British have also encircled Armentieres.

Roulers and Menin are on fire. French guns dominate the Ostend-Courtrai railway.

A Belgian communique issued on Wednesday morning stated: 'The Franco-Belgian troops have made further progress in the direction of Hooglede and Roulers. The British seized Ledeghem (between Roulers and Menin), and have crossed the Lys, between Wervicq and Commines.

AUSTRALIANS' PART IN BATTLE.

(COMMONWEALTH OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The Germans have been beaten from their great Hindenburg line of defence, on which their newspapers, their generals, and public men have been assuring them they could place trust. They are now apparently retiring eastwards. The heavy blow delivered by the Americans and Australians on September 29, straight at the Hindenburg line, at its point of greatest strength, between Bellicourt and Pony, with the deeper blow magnificently delivered by English troops immediately south, staggered the German troops holding the most vital point. The German staff hastily rushed in every division available, in order to stop the gap. The 121st, 54th, and 185th Divisions, and 75th Reserve Division were in the Hindenburg line, opposite the American divisions, which made a great assault on Sunday. That day's heavy fighting shattered and disorganised them to such an extent that the Germans rushed up three divisions immediately into the line at the same point. These were the 2nd Guards Division and the 21st Division, which had been already smashed by the Australian attacks on Mont Quentin and Peronne, and had only been resting a fortnight, and the 119th Division, which was driven back by the last Australian assault on September 18. These troops fought solidly on Monday against the Australians, who, with a certain number of Americans, were attacking up the Hindenburg line towards Bony, also bombing up the second system line towards Le Catelet, and before Nauroy, but the Germans knew the Hindenburg line was already lost. All Monday from noon onwards the German troops and transport were withdrawing along the roads leading east from the great defence. Some guns were seen later moving back.

The Australians and Americans managed yesterday (Monday) to reach the outskirts of the small village of Bony, which, for two days, held up the northern part of the advance. To-day the Australian patrols were well beyond, and nearing the northern entrance of the great tunnel, of which they already hold the southern end.

This (Tuesday) morning after dawn the Australians attacked beyond Nauroy, over open, rolling country, between the second and last system of the Hindenburg line. Advancing with a certain number of tanks behind the artillery barrage, they passed north-west of Wiancourt, and took Follemprise farm. Later they worked through the Estrees-Brot line to a position facing the third and last line of the Hindenburg system, which runs from Beaurevoir west to Wiancourt and Remincourt. Their present moment line rests on Brot. Facing the same line further south the Germans are holding the position before Gouy, Beaurevoir, and Ramicourt with strong nests of machine-guns, possibly with a greater force. The position this morning was that the Germans still hold the northern end of the great canal tunnel, while we hold the south. Barges, on which the German troops lived, still lie inside the tunnel beside the towpath. The entrance to the tunnel is 80ft below the hill surface. Somewhere in that black interior lies a point where the Australian possession of the towpath ends and the German begins, but probably neither Australian nor German knows where that point is. The fighting yesterday was always stiff in the labyrinth of surface trenches, and the troops always found machine-gun fire coming from some portions of the railway track or sunken road which marks on the surface the course of the tunnel 100ft beneath. During the fighting yesterday, the commander of one battalion of the 2nd Guard Division was captured, with the battalion headquarters. The information obtained shows that the second battalion of the 2nd Guard Regiment had been actually reduced to ninety men.

The weather on Sunday night became what seamen call dirty with wind squalls and fitful rain. The rain ceased yesterday, but the day remained dull. Last night was bright, but for the first time turned to chill winter. To-day is bright, with a cold wind, similar to the Australian winter. The country reached by the troops is green and less broken by shellfire. The shell-shattered bank where the British and German armies faced one another along the Hindenburg line last winter is now definitely past.

Sir Joseph Cook, Minister for the Australian Navy, and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, visited the very centre of the battleground within 250 yards of Bellicourt and obtained probably the next closest view of a battle that has ever been possible by a Minister of the Crown to see. The Australians were exceedingly interested in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, whom all knew as the author of "Sherlock Homes." Both Sir Joseph Cook and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle addressed the troops later behind the battlefield. Sir Joseph Cook gave them a message from the people at home. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle told them what the English people thought of their part in this war, especially this year. He told them also what their English comrades thought of them, and what their English, Scottish, and Irish comrades had done and suffered. The speech had a tremendous reception, the troops cheering again and again.

BRITISH AIRMEN.

The Press Bureau announces: The independent air force bombed the railway at Treves on October 1. Observation was impossible owing to clouds. All returned. The machine reported missing on the night of September 30 has now been located. This machine bombed the railway station at Mezieres.

Sir Douglas Haig reports: It was fine but cloudy on Tuesday. Our low-fliers were very active in machine-gunning trenches and parties of troops, and bombing and stampeding gun teams. We took more than 1700 photos. We dropped 30 tons of bombs by day, and 16 tons by night. We heavily attacked the railway junctions of Valenciennes, Aulnoye and Busigny, and set fire to two.

There was much fighting on the German side of the lines. We destroyed 21 aeroplanes and drove down eight uncontrollable. Fifteen British are missing.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING.

The Admiralty announces: The merchantmen completed in the United Kingdom during September amounted to 144,772 tons, compared with 124,675 tons in August, and 63,150 tons in September last year.

The total for the 12 months to September was 1,594,262 tons.

REPRISALS FOR WANTON DESTRUCTION.

A Washington message says the State Department is considering the sending of an ultimatum to Germany regarding the wanton destruction of French towns. It is suggested that the Allies should hold German cities definitely accountable whenever they are in a position to enforce punishment.

BRITISH OCCUPY DAMASCUS.

AUSTRALIANS FIRST TO ENTER

LONDON, Oct. 2.

A Palestine communique states that Damascus was occupied on Tuesday morning.

Australian mounted troops entered Damascus on Monday night. At 6 on Tuesday morning the city was occupied by the British and portion of the Arab army of King Hussein. Over 7000 prisoners were taken.

After the surrender, excepting for the necessary guards, all the Allied troops were withdrawn from the city, and for the present the local authorities are responsible for its administration.

GERMANY'S CRISIS.

MINISTERS RESIGN.

"ALL IS LOST!" DECLARE THE PAN-GERMANS.

According to an Amsterdam report, the "Berliner Tageblatt" says that all Prussian Ministers and Secretaries of State have tendered their resignations.

The "Daily Telegraph's" Rotterdam correspondent says the process of re-creating a so-called Government of National Defence has begun in Berlin with negotiations between Dr. von Payer (Vice-Chancellor) and various party leaders. The main efforts of the existing rulers are concentrated on mobilising the Socialists with a view to presenting the world with a picture of a new Germany clothed in the white sheet of democracy.

In the meantime all is confusion. The Government yesterday indefinitely adjourned the Main Committee of the Reichstag. The Independent Socialists vainly protested against the gagging operations, and stormily demonstrated. Eventually the chairman, amidst wild turmoil, closed the sitting.

The Pan-Germans declare that all is lost. The "Frankfurter Zeitung" asserts: "Democracy must now be completely realised. The Conservatives must be forced to give in, because more is in the balance than the privileges of a small class. "The "Kolnische Zeitung" advocates a coalition Government.

TERROR ON THE RHINE.

The Press Bureau announces that a neutral who has returned from Germany states that widespread terror prevails on the Rhine, owing to British air raids. The central portion of Frankfort-on-Main railway station was so damaged that trains are unable to enter, but arrive and depart from improvised wooden platforms some distance from the station.

RUSSIAN SITUATION.

A British official message from North Russia states: In connection with the capture of Uktinskaya 160 of the enemy were killed.

Southern Karelia has been cleared of the enemy except 200 newly-arrived reinforcements, which are surrounded south-west of Uktinskaya.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says that Prince Lvoff, who was the first president of the Russian Provisional Government, has left Siberia and is coming to the United States for the purpose of explaining what aid the provisional Government needs.

The State Department has received despatches from Stockholm reporting that passengers arriving from Petrograd say the living conditions in Petrograd and Moscow are terrible. The lives of foreigners are in danger. They state that semi-starvation and cholera are raging in Petrograd.

BELGIUM.

PROSPECT OF EVACUATION.

Despatches from Holland received in Washington state that the Germans are removing stores and guns from the Belgian coast. German civilians have been recalled, and naval reserves stationed in Antwerp are said to be preparing to leave Belgium.

An Amsterdam report states that the Germans are constructing pontoon bridges over the Meuse opposite all the Belgian roads leading to the river, and that they have completed preparations for blowing up fixed bridges. Civilians have evacuated Courtrai, Roubaix, and Lille. They are arriving in Antwerp and Liege in great numbers.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the "Daily Express" says that von Falkenhausen's military secretary, speaking to a leading Dutchman at the Hague on Monday, said that plans were ready for the early evacuation of Belgium. The Germans will return to the frontier in order to show the world that they really want to defend the Fatherland.

It is rumoured that the Dutch authorities have taken the hint, and are strengthening the Belgian frontier to prevent violation of Dutch territory by the retreating Germans.

BIG CHANGE COMING

SITUATION REVIEWED.

The Australian Press Association learns that the situation on the Western front is most interesting. Something is about to happen. The loss of St. Quentin and positions to the north must result in the enemy's retirement on a fairly large scale, probably greater than the present fighting indicates. There will be a big change in the situation before winter. The weather is now unfavourable. If it permits the Allies to continue their pressure, the enemy will be compelled to make serious and far-reaching changes to save the Western front.

The Flanders advance must slow down until the guns come up; also the enemy is fighting heavily.

The enemy is vigorously contesting the Cambrai sector, where he has massed many divisions. The Allies captured Rumilly, Crevecoeur, and the high ground to the north and east.

This is a serious threat. The enemy may be compelled to retreat in the region of Le Catelet or we can coop him up in an awkward corner between Cambrai and the Scarpe. We have broken through the line between Fonsomme and Beaurevoir. It is still uncertain what lines he has in the rear. He certainly has some, though the present fracture makes his position most serious, and threatens his line of retreat from the Oise Valley and from the St. Gobain Massif, which is in process of being turned from the north.

The enemy is being pushed back vigorously between the Aisne and the Vesle, the French having advanced three to four miles on a ten-miles' front. The enemy is now retreating to his 1917 line behind the Aliette and the Aisne.

The battle is proceeding slowly in the Champagne. The French have made small gains, despite great enemy resistance at a place where he can hardly afford to give any ground at all.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

A report from Washington says that a shell struck an American hospital behind the fighting line, killing 20 wounded men.

A Washington report says the State Department is conducting an inquiry into the alleged pro-Germanism of American officials at Guatemala city. Grave charges are preferred.

The Ministry of Munitions will reduce the control price of aluminium to £200 per ton from January 1.

A message from New York says that Mr. H. D. McIntosh, M.L.C., of Sydney, entertained Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, the cartoonist, who is going to Australia to assist recruiting.

The British expedition has seized the German mines in Spitzbergen, and is exploiting them in the Allies' interests. Sir Ernest Shackleton commanded the force, and Mr. Frank Wild remains in charge of operations.

BULGARIA.

SOLDIERS GO HOME.

BOLSHEVISM IN SOFIA.

LONDON, Oct. 2.

A Servian communique states that the Bulgarian troops are returning to Bulgaria.

A French communique says: The measures provided for in the armistice are being carried out.

A message from Paris says that Mr. Murphy, United-States Consul-General at Sofia, who has arrived at Salonica, states that as the result of a Crown Council meeting on September 22 King Ferdinand appealed to Berlin and Vienna for immediate help, which Austria and Germany refused. King Ferdinand then appealed to the Entente, because he realised that in order to keep his throne and life it was imperative to have a foreign military force in Bulgaria, where the revolution was already making progress. Extremist Bolshevism was the doctrine of the day in Sofia. Workers and soldiers held a meeting and made laws. They held a demonstration before the Palace, frequently alluding to the assassination of the Czar Nicholas.

The Bulgarian delegates during the Salonica discussion displayed their willingness to fight against Turkey.

EFFECT ON AUSTRIA.

An Amsterdam message says the Hungarian newspapers are demanding a rupture of Austria-Hungary's alliance with Germany.

Beatrice Baskerville, the Zurich correspondent of the "New York World," learns that the Bulgarian peace move caused a terrific panic on the Budapest Bourse. Many important failures are occurring. Before closing on Saturday the Vienna Bourse, influenced by the panicky feeling from Budapest, showed an erratic movement causing several serious bankruptcies. The Hungarians are convinced that King Ferdinand will now devote himself entirely to the Allies, leaving Hungary exposed to Bulgaria and Russia, with the Magyar army in Albania endangered by the Allied operations. The Austrians seem obsessed by a desire for peace. The Viennese are expressing great sympathy with the Bulgarians who signed the armistice.

The Press Bureau announces: A Servian semi-official message states that news of risings of Servians, Croatians, and Slovenes should be received with great reserve. It is feared that Austrians and Germans are inducing the police to excite peaceful inhabitants so as to furnish a pretext to confiscate their property and imprison them in Austro-Hungary.

TEUTON HOPES.

TO COERCE BULGARS.

TURKEY WAVERING.

The "Neue Freie Presse" (Vienna) says the pro-Germans in Sofia are forming a Cabinet. General Savoff (Minister for War) is entrusted with the reorganisation of the Bulgarian troops. Austro-German circles believe it is not too late to save the situation by a vigorous policy.

The Zurich correspondent of the "Daily News" says Turkey informed Germany that she was determined to sue for peace. Germany replied that she intended to occupy Bulgaria militarily. The question now is in suspense. A decision is imminent.

The London "Standard" says that Turkey has made unofficial peace overtures to the Allies through financial channels.

Reports are current in London that Turkey, through financial channels, is making more direct approaches to the Allies, and important developments are expected.

BRILLIANT FRENCH CAVALRY.

A French Eastern communique on Tuesday stated: French cavalry played a particularly brilliant part in the operations preceding the signing of the armistice. After entering Prilep on September 23 they captured considerable booty, and subsequently vigorously cooperated with the infantry in overcoming enemy resistance before Veles. The cavalry turned the defences of Veles by following almost impassable mountain paths, and then daringly penetrated the enemy lines, and on September 29 came within sight of Uskub, which it carried dismounted in sheer fighting, holding on, despite furious counter-attacks, aided by fresh Bulgar reinforcements.

The Press Bureau states that the Allies have formally recognised the belligerent status of Arabs fighting as auxiliaries with the Allies in Palestine and Syria.

During this operation, carried out with the greatest daring, the cavalry took 400 prisoners, including 200 Germans, and captured seven heavy guns, large numbers of horses and cattle, and a train laden with corn consigned to Germany.

INTEREST LIMITED.

MONEY ON DEPOSIT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

No company, society, or association shall, under an amendment of the War Precautions (companies, firms, and businesses) regulations, receive money on deposit at a higher rate of interest than 4½ per cent. after November 1 next, except with the consent in writing of the Treasurer, and upon such terms and conditions as he determines.

The Acting Prime Minister and Treasurer, Mr. Watt, said to-day that the passing of the regulation arose as a result of representations made by Australian banks. The Government some time ago intimated to the banks that, in order that undue competition between bank deposit rates and war loan rates should not take place, the banks should not lift their interest rates for deposits. For some time the banks had known that certain companies had been accepting deposits at a higher rate, and they naturally felt that all parties ought to be on the same footing.

PAPER CONTROL.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO BE APPOINTED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

An advisory committee is to be created almost immediately to assist the Paper Controller (Mr. William Brooks) in regulating the use of paper in the Commonwealth. This committee will be representative of all sections of the trade, including employees. The regulations to restrict the consumption of newspaper will be submitted to the committee for discussion before they are issued, in a few days' time. These regulations will come into operation at the beginning of next month. Mr Brooks, who will leave for Sydney to-morrow, expects to have most of the administrative arrangements complete upon his return to Melbourne at the end of next week.

WOOLLAHRA LOAN BILL.

A meeting of the ratepayers of Bellevue Ward, Woollahra, was held at the Scots College last night, to consider what attitude should be adopted with regard to the Woollahra Loan Bill.

Colonel Macarthur Onslow, M.L.A., who convened the meeting, said that he had succeeded in having the bill recommitted, so that the vital clauses might be reconsidered. (Hear, hear.) There was no doubt that the work was absolutely necessary. (Hear, hear.) Some of those who had opposed the bill were now in doubt as to whether the evils which would result from the work not being carried out were not worse than the injustice which it was asserted was contained in the bill. He wished to know the desires of the ratepayers of Bellevue Ward.

Mr. W. F. Latimer, M.L.A. (Mayor of Woollahra), mentioned that he did not wish to force the bill upon Bellevue Ward. But there was no other way of having the work done than that proposed in the bill. A sum of £900 would be brought over from the old loan and made available free of interest. A sum of £16,000 was to be borrowed, and £16,900 was to be spent in Bellevue Ward. If that was not a good scheme, then he knew nothing of finance.

Dr. Parker moved, and it was resolved,—"That, having heard the explanation of the Mayor, this meeting considers that in the best interests of Bellevue Ward the ratepayers should give support to the bill as presented to Parliament, together with the amendment regarding the £900 proposed by the Mayor."

LATE WAR NEWS.

BRITISH FRONT.

LONDON, Oct. 2.

Sir Douglas Haig on Wednesday night reported: The enemy strongly attacked this morning north-eastward of St. Quentin with fresh troops, and succeeded in pressing us back from Sequehart, where we stopped him. Local fighting northward of Crevecoeur and westward of Cambrai caused no material change in the situation.

The Canadians, as the result of operations yesterday and during the night in the neighbourhood of Cambrai, captured the suburb of Neuville St. Remy, and the high ground westward of Ramillies.

The enemy early this morning commenced to withdraw on a wide front southward and northward of the La Bassee Canal. We are following up closely, and have taken prisoners.

HEAVY FIGHTING.

The Australian Press Association learns that the British were engaged in heavy fighting to-day. Little progress was recorded, but the enemy losses were sanguinary. The enemy, as was expected, is strongly reacting, in view of our advances yesterday. There was stubborn fighting in the Cambrai area. The enemy used 11 divisions on a five-mile front.

Considerable progress has been made in the Vesle and Aisne sector, where the enemy retired to the Aisne-Marne Canal. He now stands on the river on practically the whole of this front.

It is not clear whether the enemy's resistance aims at gaining time to evacuate stores or holding on indefinitely, but indications exist that he is about to retire in the Armentieres and Lens area.

Though there are many indications of the likelihood of a German retreat, there is no sign of a real break in the German resistance. The public should not be encouraged to look for peace by Christmas. What really is happening is that we have forced the Germans to put in reserves to hold their present lines. Any further advance would render an attempt to hold the lines very dangerous for the enemy. Already the important Lens salient, with its great coal deposits, is threatened. The Allies are running a race with winter. They have only a month of campaigning weather ahead, and even the most successful operations take time. St. Quentin, which is as big as Hull (a city of 200,000 inhabitants), is not cleaned up yet, and will probably take three or four days.

ST. QUENTIN TAKEN.

A French communique, issued at midnight on Wednesday, said:—The enemy was completely ejected from St. Quentin, the whole of which we are occupying, also the suburb of Isle. Southwards we advanced towards Hancourt, and carried Moy, despite the tenacious resistance of the enemy. North of the Vesle our advance continues. Roucy, Julencourt, Bouffigneureux, Villers Framquex and Cauroy have been captured. Our lines have reached the southern outskirts of Cormicy and Loivre. Further south we skirt the western bank as far as Laneu Villette. We have captured Courcy. We improved our position in the Champagne south-west of Orfeuil, and gained a footing in the heights south of Monthois.

During Tuesday we brought down 14 enemy aeroplanes and two balloons. Our bombers dropped 27 tons of projectiles, and fired thousands of rounds into enemy concentrations and convoys. During Monday night eight tons of bombs and on Tuesday night over 27 tons were dropped on the big stations of Honguyon, Conflans, Domgry, Barcourt, Maison Bleu, Le Catelet, Mont Cernet, and Laon.

FURTHER SUCCESSES.

The Germans are evacuating their positions on a 20-mile front between Lens and Armentieres.

The French have captured Challarange and Poivre.

GERMAN RULE IN ALSACE.

A report from Berne says the German military authorities, in a proclamation issued in Alsace, draws attention to nocturnal attacks on troop trains between Colmar and Mulhouse by pro-French civilians with rifles. It adds: "If, as hitherto, the authorities are unable to discover the perpetrators of such outrages, reprisals hereafter will be carried out on the whole population of the districts concerned."

BURNING THE TOWNS.

According to an Amsterdam message the Germans are burning a large number of towns in Flanders, including Roulers and Lichtervilde, the populations of which have been sent to Germany.

RUSSIA PAYS.

The second instalment of the six milliards of marks paid by Russia has reached Berlin. Waggons filled with gold and bank notes travelled from Orscha under military guard.

AMERICAN FRONT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

Mr. James, telegraphing from the American front, says: The First American Army is advancing towards the Kriemhilde-Stellung line. Captured orders show the German high command is extremely anxious that the Kriemhilde-Stellung line should be held. The Germans are afraid to face the American troops in open warfare, which they will be compelled to do if they give up the Kriemhilde-Stellung line, as there is no organised defence system between it and the French border. Our air service reports more than 100 enemy planes and 21 balloons were brought down since the present attack started.

WITH THE AUSTRALIANS.

(COMMONWEALTH OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Oct. 2.

The position to-day is that the Germans are still holding the last trench of the Hindenburg system before Beaurevoir and Ramicourt, the Australians and British facing them. The Germans hold Le Catalet and Gouy. The Australians yesterday reached Mont St. Martin, immediately south thereof. As is always the case, the main strength of the tremendous German fortifications across the three and a half miles gap where the canal has not protected them, is a maze of deep well-built trenches, with countless broad bands of wire and deep roomy dugouts, rather than the existence of an abnormal defence on the scarpe of the tunnel. Some of us inspected the tunnel yesterday. The canal runs through a huge cutting similar to an enormous railway cutting, with steep, scrubby banks, and enters the hill south of Bellicourt by an arched brick tunnel, like a railway overarch, with the inscription, "Napoleon, Emperor and King, opened the canal of St. Quentin, which reunites the basins of the Seine and Schedlt, in 1802; finished in 1810." The canal enters the tunnel with the water about 6ft deep over the entrance. The Germans dropped a wooden screen or door partly broken down behind which a concrete partition is resting on a bridge from towpaths to towpaths, completely obscuring the entrance except a few feet above water level. Inside this, in darkness which could be cut with a knife, a string of great black wooden barges show up in the flickering light of a candle, jammed right against each other, the stem of one pressed to the stern of the next. Inside the long, empty, untidy holds are rows of rough bunks, and occasional tables, where there are the remains of meals. Beside the canal the whole length runs the towpath. The space between the barge and the side of the towpath is boarded. Here and there throughout the length of the tunnel narrow, uncomfortable shafts run up to the exits on the surface, but it is insufficiently explored to say how far these were used in order to slip the garrison secretly into the trenches above. What is certain, the canal was used as a great unwholesome underground barrack. Even here the garrison was not altogether secure. There is one grim chamber near the southern entrance which is the most horrible place I have ever entered. It is reached by a dark stone stair inside the entrance, winding up through the masonry to a narrow rock chamber somewhere above the arch. Inside were four great waggon wheels, apparently connected with the ancient machinery of the Napoleonic days for winding up and lowering the wooden door of the canal. It seemed perfectly safe. The Germans had built a kitchen therein, with two coppers, and lengthened the chamber in order to provide bunks for about fifteen men. But the interior of the chamber was really only three or four feet from the surface of the embankment above the entrance. In the wall was a clean bored hole of a British shell which had penetrated and exploded inside. Thirteen Germans were inside, lying there still with the dust of that shell explosion over them. One was thrown into the copper, one behind a waggon wheel, and the rest of the ground. The Germans captured nearby said that 10 also were wounded by the same shell. The tunnel does not seem to have been the scene of heavy fighting. There was a machine-gun loophole in the concrete screen, but we did not see a single expended cartridge, only a machine-gun belt lying beside the opening in process of being filled. Where the heavy fighting occurred was round the machine-gun nests in the trenches far above in the open. On the first afternoon some of us saw the Australian infantry make a splendid attack fanwise towards Cabare Farm. The men rushing forward obviously were under heavy fire, but could not be stopped by anything. To-day there lie before a certain nest of trenches south of that farm the strange brave men whom the machine-guns caught before the trench was reached. In the trench lie bayoneted a number of Germans, including the machine-gun's crew.

THE UNDERGROUND CANAL.

Mr. Gordon Gilmour (Australian Press Association), telegraphing on Tuesday, says:—The Australians and Americans lost no time in investigating the underground canal, which all considered one of the chief obstacles in the Hindenburg line. Parties already have strolled into the tunnel along the narrow towpath, and found the place in utter darkness. The light of electric torches flashing up the smaller tunnels has only increased the weirdness of the scene. A long line of barges remains floating everywhere. There are signs the Germans recently were living therein in large numbers. The Americans, whose duty it was to guard the southern entrance to the tunnel, promptly adopted houseboat life, and made themselves comfortable in the outermost barge. Adventurous spirits declare they have walked through the entire 6000 yards. This would be a risky thing to do, because the Germans are believed to have burrowed in all directions, making the canal tunnel their main corridor from which to radiate numberless series of shafts, passages, and dugouts. Our line at the present moment embraces two-thirds of the tunnel. Australians moving north-eastward along two parallel spurs towards Le Catalet found machine-guns firing from the tunnel line, which ran in a hollow between the New South Welshmen on the eastern spur and the Queenslanders, South Australians, and Western Australians on the western ridge. This activity proves that some Germans remain in certain places of this vast underground habitation. As we are steadily pushing on above ground their position becomes perilous unless long tunnels exist leading far back into the German lines. The capture of Bony puts the Australians' position in advance northward along the trenches of the main Hindenburg line, but the expenditure of bombs will be enormous, seeing there is such a maze of trenches, every one of which must be thoroughly cleared. Therefore, it is more likely the Hindenburg line will be turned from the south by the development of the British success at Bellenglise, which is now swinging round northwards. With the co-operation of the Americans, the Australians already have passed Joncourt, which the British captured yesterday. Patrols of South Australians and Western Australians entered Joncourt on Sunday afternoon, and took prisoners, but they found it wise to return. The Germans are fighting desperately at many points on this front. Apparently they have been made to realise they have their backs to the wall, and the Hindenburg line must be held. They failed to withstand the weight of Sunday's attack, subsequent operations only making the breach more complete. Already the Germans have sent in two reinforcing divisions here, making most of the artillery, in the hope of delaying and checking further thrusts. But the guns are answered by guns. Our men feel the enemy does not possess troops with the capacity or the numbers to stop them.

The Americans, who, on Sunday, were brought to the first realisation of the stern rules governing a big battle, are naturally proud that they have done so well. Officers at the southern end of the front said: "We had our first lesson, and are pleased we got all our objectives. The presence of the Australians gave us confidence the job could be done well. Nothing pleased our boys better than the bringing in of bunches of Germans."

The Americans tell of amusing incidents. Several field-grey figures came swiftly towards the Americans as they approached the German trenches, and greeted them with pronounced Yankee accent. "I'm from Charlestown; been waiting for you since 1915," said one. The Americans found many German-Americans had put on their packs in readiness to give themselves up.

AUSTRALIAN PRESS DELEGATION.

The High Commissioner for Australia (Mr. Andrew Fisher) tendered a farewell banquet to the Australian newspaper delegates in the new Australia House. Among those present were:—Lord Burnham, Mr. J. H. Spender, Mr. A. G. Gardiner, and other British editors; Admiral Weymss, and Sir Thomas Mackenzie.

Mr. Hughes, in proposing the toast of "Our Guests," alluded to the German outlook. What she had failed to obtain by force, he said, she was now seeking to secure by chicane. The man who in 1914 brandished the sword and shining armour hoped to fool the world by talk of constitutional reform, but let him and his country pay the price of their misdeeds. It was impossible to see the sacrifices through which the Australians had won great victories in France without being proud to belong to their nation.

Mr. Hughes announced that he had received a telegram from General Monash, stating the Australians had captured all their objectives east of the Hindenburg line, their total casualties being about 1000.

Mr. F. Anstey, M.P., in responding, said he hoped the war would be earnestly prosecuted, and Germany made to suffer for the way she had made the world suffer.

REPATRIATED AUSTRALIANS.

The repatriated soldiers include Corporal P. Freirat, who was made a prisoner at Fleurbaux in July, 1916. The wound in his leg was not dressed for five days. A second operation which was necessary was performed brutally. No anaesthetic was administered, and Freirat was held down during the operation. Later he was operated on for appendicitis.

Private J. Murphy, lately of Parkside, South Australia. He was captured at Moreuil in April, 1917. He says the prisoners were marched through the Lille streets to impress the inhabitants, some of whom tried to give them food, but the German guards drove them off with their rifle butts. The prisoners were lodged in a Lille dungeon, where appalling conditions existed, the Germans asserting that this was done as a reprisal. Later, he joined 100 Australians near Douai, and was forced to excavate machine-gun positions within artillery range. Subsequently he was forced to assist in the destruction of foundries, factories, and potteries.

R. Williamson, lately of Darlinghurst, Sydney, who was captured at Corbie, in April. He had a broken thigh, and was bedridden throughout his captivity. His leg is four inches short.

Murphy states the food was mostly the flesh of horses which had been killed behind the lines.

WELCOME HOME.

MORE RETURNED SOLDIERS.

The batch of returned soldiers who arrived yesterday afternoon included 157 New South Wales men, 200 Victorians, 73 Queenslanders, and over 100 New Zealanders. The majority were from Egypt and Palestine—the others from the Western front. Not a few of the fine fellows who are now wounded or on the sick list had been on active service four years. In the nature of things, the returned Light Horsemen were elated over the recent brilliant achievements of General Allenby in Palestine. With the men were a considerable number of officers, Staff Nurse Kavanagh, and Staff Nurse Clelland. The officers with the New South Wales men were Captain H. Hardy, Captain C. G. Taylor, and Lieutenants E. S. Hordern, A. Kingsford, J. U. Leask, and R. H. Matheson. Major C. R. Spragg, of New Zealand, was taken to the military hospital at Randwick.

Lieut. D. B. R. Broughton, who returned with the Military Cross, is the son of the late H. B. Broughton, of Hay, and Mrs. Broughton, of Point Piper. Lieut. Broughton left as a corporal in the 5th Light Horse (Queensland) in 1914, and served in Gallipoli, Sinai, and Palestine. He was twice mentioned in despatches, and was awarded the Military Cross for special services in the operations culminating in the capture of Jerusalem.

The Victorians and the Queenslanders were taken in motor cars to the Central Railway Station, where dinner was provided for them.

The Red Cross Voluntary Aid detachments looked after the returned men on the wharf at Woolloomooloo Bay, at the Central Railway Station, and at the Anzac Buffet.

The first of the "strong posts" was furnished in Haig-avenue, by the employees of Marcus Clark, Limited. Martin-place and Moore-street, as usual, carried off the honours in flag displays and enthusiastic cheering. The last of the "strong posts" took up a position near the entrance to the Anzac Buffet.

On the stroke of 5 o'clock the New South Wales men, headed by the Liverpool Headquarters Band, reached the buffet, where afternoon tea was served to the returned soldiers and a crowd of men and women who had gained admission on the tickets issued to relations and friends. The few invalids who had no one to look after them were taken to the Rose Hall Red Cross Convalescent Home.

NO MEAT ON MONDAY.

Mr. Nicholls, secretary to the Master Butchers' Association, stated last night that the retail butchers' shops would close on Monday next, Eight-Hour Day. He said that the public would have to obtain their Monday supplies of meat on Saturday.

WAR NOTES.

NATURE OF THE ALLIED TASK.

Military successes have followed upon each other so rapidly during the past week that there is some danger of becoming too optimistic regarding their possible effect. The great struggle along the Hindenburg defensive zone between St. Quentin and the Sensee river has shown that the German military machine is able to stand a very heavy strain, and that, in spite of new methods of attack, strongly-held defensive positions must still have an effect upon the rate of advance. When we realise the strength of the enemy's prepared front in this region and the liberal use which he has made of his reserves, we are able to appreciate the task with which the Allies were faced, and feel satisfied with the progress of the battle as far as it has gone. The diversion of his reserves to this front and to the region where the French and Americans are attacking astride the Argonne, has probably been largely responsible for the extent of the success achieved in Flanders. Here, again, however, there is a danger of exaggeration. Undoubtedly a pronounced advance was achieved, and the enemy was called upon to face a more serious position on his right flank than he had previously been required to provide for. A further advance here might seriously jeopardise his position on the Belgian coast, as some of his communications with that region have already been severed. At present, however, his position is not untenable, and the preparations which he is reported to be making behind his line in Belgium are possibly only precautionary measures which he is adopting in view of the possibility of further developments in that region. In any case, a rectification of his front there would not necessarily entail the evacuation of the whole of Belgium.

PROGRESS ABOVE ST. QUENTIN.

While the piling up of reserves along the front between Cambrai and St. Quentin has resulted in a more or less fluctuating struggle, the Allies continue to show a margin of gain each day. The southern half of the front is now becoming more interesting as the weakness developed by the Allied attacks has become more pronounced there than around Cambrai, where the enemy's reserves were probably in greater strength in the early stages of the fighting. The attack on Tuesday afternoon last, mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's message issued at noon on Wednesday, achieved a very useful success, the effects of which may be revealed in later reports. This was made along the front south-eastward of Le Catelet, where the British had previously established themselves well to the eastward of the St. Quentin Canal and on the left of the French troops, which were yesterday reported to have reached the canal between Le Tronquoy and Rouvroy. The result of the attack was that the point of the Allied wedge north-eastward of St. Quentin has been driven still further into the enemy's line. Here they captured the villages of Sequehart and Preselles, and, to use Sir Douglas Haig's words, "breached the Fonsomme-Beaurevoir line," which the Commonwealth official correspondent suggests is the last line of the Hindenburg system. We have yet to see, however, whether this breach will be widened sufficiently to permit of successful infiltration on the part of the Allies, or whether the enemy will be able to repair it by constructing further switch lines in the rear. At a late hour last night the final British and French communiques had not come to hand, and these may show an important alteration in the position above and below St. Quentin.

FRENCH GAINS NEAR REIMS.

The communique issued by the French on Wednesday afternoon shows that the Germans are being forced out of the remainder of the high ground north-west of Reims. The line reached by the French after last Monday's attack left the enemy still in possession of strong positions north-west of Reims, between the Aisne and the Aisne-Marne canal. Perhaps the most important of these was the St. Thierry massif, on which is situated Fort St. Thierry. It will be remembered that the British fought doggedly for this massif, during the enemy's offensive at the end of May last, in their effort to protect Reims from the north-west, and to confine the front of the enemy's drive towards the Marne. The recapture of the massif renders the Allies' hold on Reims much more secure than it has been during the past four months, and will probably compel the enemy to fall back behind the Aisne-Marne canal. One message states that he has already effected this withdrawal, but at the time of writing the French had not claimed the capture of the high ground and villages to the north-west of the St. Thierry massif. The task of driving the enemy out of these positions and across the canal and river should not prove impossible, in view of what the French have already accomplished on this front. This advance in the region north-west of Reims has already afforded some relief from the pressure which the enemy was exerting against the northern as well as against the north-western side of the city, the gain of ground by the French at la Neuvillette and Betheny having forced back the enemy's line at points where it had been carried forward almost into the northern outskirts of the city.

A BRITISH TANK.

His Majesty's landship Grit crawled through some of the city streets yesterday from the Central Railway Station, and berthed its ponderous form in Moore-street, where its caterpillar legs will rest for some time while it is given over to the lofty mission of building up the war loan.

The people of Sydney have had to be content merely with pictures of the British tanks that have been so profoundly impressing the enemy and bringing chaotic terror into the hearts of the German soldiers. They now have an opportunity to see one of these British monsters, for the Grit was one of a fleet of 200 in France. Its full battle weight is 35 tons. Stripped, it weighs 28 tons. It is 30ft long, and stands 10ft 6in in height, and carries a crew of eight, all invalided men, and the majority of them 1914 men. Captain Norman L. Brown, who is in charge of it, has also seen service. It is a British tank of the latest pattern, and looks precisely the thing of terror that it has proved to be in the din of battle. It was conveyed from Albury in a 40-ton truck, and was welcomed, along with the crew, at the station by Mr. A. S. Jones, one of the joint organising secretaries of the central war loan committee, in the unavoidable absence of the Lord Mayor. With a war loan flag triumphantly aloft, the Grit left the station at about 4 p.m., and excited the curiosity of crowds of people as it trundled along. Four eyes that peered through two apertures in front of it were the only visible part of the crew. Ahead of it strode two policemen to clear the way for it, although, as a matter of fact, the tank cleared its own way. It held complete dominion over the traffic. "Take this thing out of the way," bawled a lorry driver. But the tank just moved on. Some of the horses, used probably to the throb of the city traffic, passed it by contemptuously, but others could not understand the monster in their presence. They eyed it curiously, pricked up their ears, and timidly snorted; others threw up their hind legs, and had to be patted and coaxed into the belief that it was something quite harmless. By the time it reached Moore-street it had a large crowd around it. Men and women vied with small boys to get a close look at it.

War loan bonds will be sold from it to-day. Later, there will be a public demonstration of it in the city.

RECRUITING.

At the Central Recruiting Depot on Wednesday 17 men were accepted. Counting the 22 accepted men in the country the total for the day was 39.

There was a recruiting rally at Concord last night in connection with the Parkes electorate march to freedom.

At 1 o'clock to-day Lieutenant Wilson and other returned soldiers will address a meeting at the corner of George and Campbell streets, Haymarket.

The following meetings will be held at 8 o'clock this evening:—

Five Dock.—Chairman, the Mayor; speaker, R. O. Blake.

Montague-street, Balmain.—Lieut. Litchfield, Sergt. Robson, Corpl. Thrower, Corpl. Piddick, Sergt. Becker; chairman, Alderman M'Kenzie, Mayor of Balmain.

National-street, Rozelle.—Corpl. Piddick, Sergt. Becker, Lieut. Litchfield, Sergt. Robson, Corpl. Thrower.

Manly, Corso.—Lieut. Glynn, Private Dyer.

Spit Junction.—Musical programme, Lieut. Nicholls, Warrant Officer Baker.

Hurstville.—Corpl. Byrnes, Sergt. Shurey.

Kogarah.—Sergt. Burke, M.M., Corpl. Hamilton.

Rockdale.—W.O. Mulready, Private Clarke.

Drummoyne.—Miss R. S. Evans.

Bondi Junction.—Lieut. Roddis and prominent speakers. Musical programme.

Haberfield.—Torchlight procession, war pictures, band, and troops. Speakers, Captain Chaplain M'Kenzie, M.C.

AUSTRALIAN WIRELESS SERVICE.

LONDON, Oct. 2.

The newspapers in Britain emphasise the importance of the establishment of direct wireless communication with Australia. Mr. Godfrey Isaacs, in the course of an interview, said that although there could be no public service immediately, the Marconi Company would soon provide a staff and organisation in Australia for that purpose. The possibilities for further linking up various parts of the Empire were illimitable.

FRENCH MISSION.

MEETING WITH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The principal event in the activities of the French Mission yesterday was a meeting between the commercial representatives and the members of the Chamber of Commerce, when the future trade relationship of France and Australia was discussed.

The members of the Mission in the morning inspected the mounted police at the depot at Redfern, and afterwards General Pau and Commandant d'Andre were conducted by the Premier over the model suburb of Daceyville. In the evening most of the members of the Mission were present at a concert in the Town Hall.

To-day the members of the Mission will visit Newport and the Hawkesbury, and to-morrow evening, after being entertained at dinner by the Chamber of Manufactures, they will leave by special train for Yass.

GERMANY'S AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

MAY HELP TO REBUILD FRANCE.

Some hundreds of members of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce met the commercial representatives of the French Mission in King's Hall, Hunter-street, yesterday morning, and formally discussed methods by which trade between France and Australia may be increased and stimulated. The president of the chamber, Mr. C. E. D. Meares, was chairman.

Mr. Meares welcomed the visitors, and expressed the sympathy of the Sydney commercial community with them and their countrymen in the sufferings which war had forced upon them. Their fields had been ruined by shell holes and trenches, their factories had been destroyed, and their arts and sciences—which were their national pride—had been placed under a severe handicap. All were eager to help France in the work of rebuilding, and to assist the Mission in establishing a closer relationship between France and the Commonwealth.

Dr. Siegfried said that the Australian troops sent to France had won a place of honour in the battle line. He hoped that Australia in the days after the war would also hold a foremost place in her relationship with France. The Mission believed that an extended business relationship was possible between the two countries. The directions in which changes were possible were shown by the following figures:—

	Exports from Australia.	Imports to Australia.
France	£8,000,000	£2,293,000
Germany	7,000,000	7,153,000

The Mission observed with regret, continued Dr. Siegfried, that, whereas France had been Australia's best customer among the Continental nations, Australia had purchased considerably more goods in Germany than in France. Yet France was famous for her skilled engineers and artisans, and there was no doubt about the high quality of her goods.

"For four years the Germans have held great industrial districts of Northern France. But they may not be there much longer. We have received letters, and our information tells us that it may not be very long—perhaps within a few weeks—before the Germans are expelled from France. (Cheers.) I do not know if you realise the part played by the north in our industrial activity. It is as if England were deprived of Birmingham, Manchester, and Bradford. Yet France replaced those lost industries. (Applause.) I think it is one of the most wonderful things of the war.

"France not only lost wonderful revenue-producing districts, but she has also lost great numbers of men. The French have lost young men in such numbers that it will be very difficult to repair. The figures I am giving you are not official, but it may be found that 1,500,000 men of France have been killed, and from 300,000 to 400,000 have been disabled. Think what that loss means to our industrial army, from the point of view of technical skill and labour supplies.

"The effect of the war on our trade has been terrible. The diminution has been two-thirds or three-quarters. We fight—we fight for existence. Every strength of our body, every strength of our heart, is devoted to the continued existence of our nation. (Applause.) We are buying everywhere; we export little. The balance of trade is against us—our exchange has fallen down. Other countries are seeking your trade; and we—we cannot send you anything now, or trade with you, because all our men are at the front, defending not only our country but all the Allies." (Cheers.)

Dr. Siegfried went on to tell of the post-war problems before France. All her money was invested in the war; but presently money would be wanted for repairing industry and establishing new business. Machinery was worn out, and much had been stolen. Great quantities of raw material had also been carried off by the Germans, and must be replaced. There would be a great labour shortage to be faced. But France, which had won such glory in this war, would live and be great, because France was necessary to the world. (Cheers.) To show the spirit of France, he read a statement by M. Motte, one of the greatest French wool manufacturers, and father-in-law of M. Leclercq Motte, a member of the Mission:—

During the first year after the war we intend to organise night working shifts so as to make up for the stolen or destroyed machinery. We have still the spring necessary to rise again, take up the race, and show as brilliant a performance as we did in pre-war days. We will not accept a lower standard. For the last four years, our woollen industry has been, so to speak, asleep, under seal. Stocks are depleted and stolen. All expenses—keep, insurance, wages, and salaries—crush us down. But let the day dawn, and, as Lazarus of old, we shall rise from the tomb, and "hungry." We believe in our fine and faithful English and colonial clients. We hope to gather them around us again, and to deserve their trust.

In repairing the ravages of war and rebuilding her trade France looked hopefully to Australia. She did not wish to compete with Australian industries, but simply to supply a share of the things that must be imported. The mission realised that, before the war, the French manufacturers did not sufficiently "push" their goods in Australia, and that in the future they should have direct representatives here. (Applause.) Commercial agents in Australia and more advertising would be advocated by the mission.

"You know the place in your commercial life that was taken by Germany," the speaker went on. "I think there is no reason why France should not take a part or the whole of that trade. (Loud cheers.) Austria has also sent you goods, and we may to some extent take the place of Austria." (Applause.)

Dr Siegfried said that an adjustment of tariff relations was a necessary preliminary to trade development. The feeling was that after the war the Allies, who had fought and suffered together, should enjoy together some mutual economic advantages which would not be extended to their present enemies. (Cheers.) They were friendly to France, and in this case sentiment and commercial interests might go together. France had been a good customer in the past, and she would be a better one in the future. But they must help France to recover, and France would not recover soon if she were not allowed to find good markets in all parts of the world. "It is to the interest of the whole world that France should live. Help us, and you will have done a service, first to France and also to Australia."

Mr. Meadows Smith (of the British Chamber of Commerce in Paris) said that, as an Englishman, he could most cordially concur in and support all that Dr. Siegfried had said. In the past, in 1912, Australia had exported to France mostly wool, wheat (bought in London), hides, tallow, and metals. This trade was capable of being developed in quantity and in variety. There were a great number of Australian products of which France would be a willing purchaser, but which in the past had hardly entered France at all. Argentina's sales to France had been considerably in excess of those of Australia. Australian products—except wool—entering France paid the maximum tariff, but he believed that this difficulty was susceptible of arrangement. He spoke of obstacles, such as shipping formalities, and urged that the interests of Australasian shippers should be guarded in France by someone well acquainted with conditions there. He suggested that there should be in all countries which required Australian products commercial ambassadors, who would look after the interests of shippers and vigorously develop the new markets that would open up after the war. He thought groups of exporting houses which were not in competition should have their special representatives abroad—a system that other countries had followed very successfully—who might supervise a method of warehousing in countries where a steady demand existed. He urged the promotion of shipping lines between France and Australia. He had for years taken a keen interest in the development of Australian trade, and his advice to Australia was "organised production and organised sale; produce for all you are worth."

The members of the mission present (who included also M. Leclercq Motte and M. Mathieu) were thanked for their attendance by Mr. Mark Sheldon (vice-president). They then entered into informal conversations with the members of the chamber.

VISIT TO POLICE DEPOT.

General Pau, Commandant D'Andre, M. Le Mot, M. Corbiere, and Colonel Lee (liaison officer) paid a visit to the Police Depot at Redfern yesterday morning. Other visitors who joined the party included the Premier (Mr. Holman), the Chief Secretary (Mr. Fuller), the Minister for Health (Mr. Fitzgerald),

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-page1257436 and Mr. M'Gowen. The members of the mission entered the main gate in Bourke-street, and were received by the Inspector-General of Police (Mr. James Mitchell).

A squadron of mounted police, under Superintendent Atkinson, and also a body of motor cyclists, and men on foot under Superintendent Brooks (Assistant Metropolitan Superintendent), and Inspector Wallace (Water Police), were drawn up on the parade ground in front of the main buildings, and were inspected by the visitors. The Police Band supplied music.

After visiting the grounds and the stables of the depot, the general and his colleagues were entertained with an exhibition of buck-jumping by Constable Adams, of the depot.

VISIT TO DACEYVILLE.

General Pau, Commandant D'Andre, and M. Corbiere, in company with the Premier, the Chief Secretary, the Minister for Health, and Mr. M'Gowen, M.L.C., visited Daceyville Garden Suburb, where a row of five poplar trees was planted by General Pau, Commandant D'Andre, Mr. Holman, Mr. Fuller, and Mr. M'Gowen respectively. The general, in planting the first tree, said that he performed the ceremony with much pleasure. In France it was also a custom to plant rows of trees, and the poplar was a tree that was much in favour. He hoped that the "Liberty" tree that he planted would grow and flourish. The members of the mission then visited the cottage of Mrs. M'Williams, and also the cottage and garden of Mrs. Achurch. It was pointed out that the garden of the latter had won the prize for two years in succession. General Pau inspected the garden, and both himself and Commandant D'Andre received a gift of strawberries from Miss Achurch.

After further viewing some of the playgrounds, the mission returned to the city.

THE CALL TO LABOUR MEN.

SPEECH BY MR. MEADOWS SMITH.

Speaking at Wollongong to a local gathering Mr. Meadows Smith said that he had been charged to deliver to the workmen of Australia a message of fraternity from their brothers in France, who were struggling hard against the forces of tyranny and oppression. This message had been committed to him by men who had grown old in the service of the cause of Labour.

Dealing briefly with the impressions created upon his mind by a visit to the Australian front shortly before leaving France, he said that the Australian soldiers had written their names in letters of glory upon the soil of Flanders, Picardy, and Artois, those provinces which were the cockpit of Europe during the Middle Ages, and were soaked in blood by the age-long wars of conflicting races.

Nothing had impressed the French so much as the kindness of the Australian troops to the unfortunate peasants of the north of France, driven from their homes by the invader. The Australians had even driven the cattle of French peasants 20 miles to the rear at the time of the retreat, and he had been particularly struck by the care which the Australians took to avoid any damage to the French farmers' standing corn.

Well might Clemenceau, the French Premier, say to them, "From the very beginning of your fighting you have astonished the whole Continent," and President Poincare had said in Mr. Meadows Smith's presence that "there are no better troops among the Allies than the Australians."

After a rapid description of the country in which the Australians were fighting the speaker alluded to the mutual confidence which existed between General Monash, his officers, and men. The world had never seen an army which so exactly fulfilled all the conditions of a democratic and citizen army; and this army of the people was animated by a spirit far different to that which animated the selfish, goosestep legions of Germany.

He had seen in passing through a ruined village some outbuildings upon which an Australian soldier had chalked, during the terrible retreating fight in which the Australians covered Amiens, the words, "All pessimists will be shot." That was the spirit in which the sons of the southern seas had fought against overwhelming odds, and snatched victory out of the blackest and direst disaster. It was not astonishing that an American officer who saw the Australians for the first time said "Thank God, you are on our side."

Mr. Meadows Smith then laid stress upon the deserving character of the devout and oppressed Catholic population of the invaded French provinces, and said that it was in the interest of organised Labour all over the world that the biggest possible victory be gained, that we combat to the end militarism and privilege and all that was summed up in the word Prussia, and that we make it impossible for such wars ever to come again.

After the war the workers of Australia would have the blessed privilege of lightening the burden of their brethren in Europe, and side by side the workers of the world would build the new social edifice, the veritable city of God.

STATE GALA CONCERT.

This event, in honour of the French Mission, was conducted in a great way last night, and all proved brightly majestical. The interior of the Town Hall scintillated with the richness and colour of the Allied flags with that of France proudly alone above the serried ranks of a hundred youthful singers in white behind the Conservatorium choir and orchestra, upon which the success of the whole depended. There was much martial music rendered with that emphatic accuracy of rhythm by which Mr. Henri Verbrugghen ensures effects of fiery animation. Above all there was the welcome to General Pau and the French Mission to animate the stately scene. France was in every heart. Wordsworth's great lines epitomised the sentiment of the hour. "There's not a breathing of the common wind that will forget Thee; Thou hast great allies; Thy friends are exultations, agonies, and love, and man's unconquerable mind."

General Pau sat between his Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, with the Premier and Mrs. Holman, and the French Mission, as well as a numerous party of Ministers of the Crown, military officers, and leading people. The whole audience stood for "See the Conquering Hero," which Handel precedes by trumpet passages, allotting the theme to a semi-chorus of women before ultimately repeating the melody with the full weight of the choral and orchestral forces. The music thereafter remained on a high plane for a refreshing length of time. There was the wonderfully martial overture, "Patrie," by Bizet, in allusion to the war of 1871, so performed as to set all hearts on fire, the tremendous crescendo at the peroration being splendidly worked up. Ravel's "Pavane pour une Infante Defunte" was touchingly beautiful in its vein of sadness, and in its Spanish grace, both reflected in the stately expression of the ensemble. Bizet's Adagietto from "L'Arlesienne," and Sain Saens' often heard and always exquisite symphonic poem, "Le Rouet d'Omphale," were in this fine group of three pieces. The whirr of the wheel by muted strings, and the added charm of the wood wind to the concourse of sweet sounds, all died away gradually as the retarding circle came at last to a final and almost imperceptible stop. Mr. A. Goossens declaimed with largeness of voice and intensity of expression Rysoor's aria from Paladilhe's opera founded on Sardou's great tragedy, "Patrie." The composer continued a triumphant close after the voice had ceased in a poignant instrumental climax.

The remainder of the programme bore immediately upon the occasion. To spare the people fatigue they were advised of permission to remain seated during various national anthems. But when Mr. Verbrugghen raised his baton for a dashing performance of "La Brabanconne" no one thought for a moment of idly sitting. Was not the Belgian army at that moment advancing more bravely than ever against the oppressor? The Star Spangled Banner—meme jeu. The Italian "Marcia Reale" proved quite captivating in a purely military manner; and the Japanese anthem won the heart by its solemnity. The choir then sang "Advance, Australia Fair." The sensation of the evening was "Rule Britannia," by chorus and orchestra. That sedate audience suddenly remembered the British navy, and burst into spontaneous cheering. The conductor responded to three performances instead of one, and all concerned were "correspondent to command." It was a pleasure to hear the "Marseillaise" rendered with so much choral vigour, and Mr. Goossens's noble voice was heard to advantage in the solo. There was an encore, and General Pau then shook hands with the Governor and the Premier. The evening closed with "God Save the King," followed by three hearty cheers for the brave general of the terrible first years of the war. An impressive duty was fulfilled in the rendering of the Chopin "Funeral March." In which the solo part in the song of consolation was tenderly played by Mr. Cyril Monk (leader).

DIVORCED PERSONS.

GOULBURN, Thursday.

The Anglican Synod passed an ordinance providing for the creation of a board of education in the diocese.

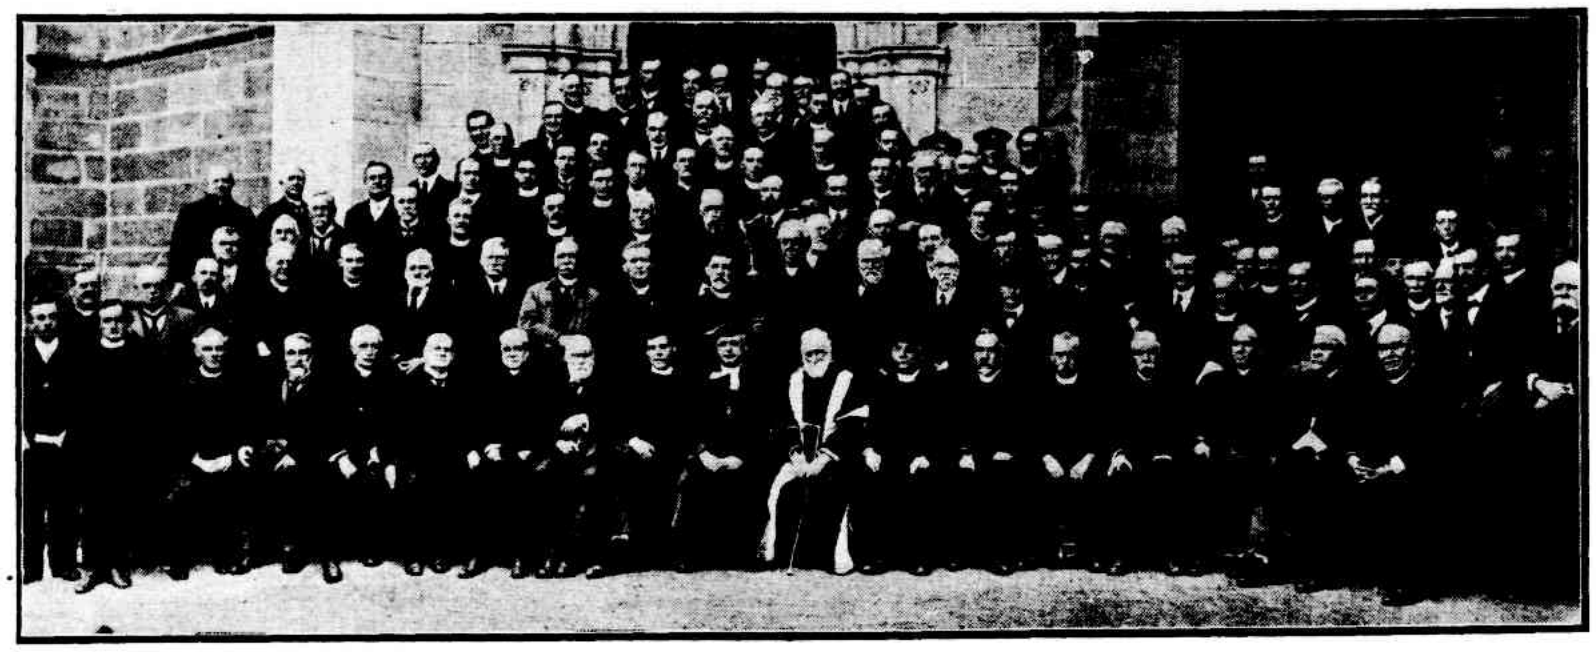

Bishop Radford spoke on the subject of remarriage after divorce. He said he did not know that he had legal power to forbid the remarriage of divorced persons, but he would refuse to grant his sanction as Bishop.

MR. HUGHES'S RETURN.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

It is improbable that the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) will return to Australia before February.

SYDNEY DIOCESAN SYNOD.

LATE MR. JUSTICE A. H. SIMPSON.

The funeral of the late Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson took place yesterday afternoon in the Field of Mars Cemetery, Ryde. The cortege moved from deceased's late residence, St. Ives, Hunter's Hill. At 3 o'clock an impressive service was held in All Saints' Church. Chopin's "Funeral March" and the Dead March in "Saul" were played by Mr. S. Gordon Lavers.

The Rev. Edward Owen (rector of All Saints'), who was assisted by the Rev. George Manning, of St. John's, Balmain, said they wished to pay a simple tribute to one whom they all respected. He was pleased to speak of the deceased as a friend. "I do not wish to refer to his great legal knowledge or professional attainments, nor of the useful services rendered by him to the State on the Bench," Mr. Owen went on, "but I would like to say a word about him as we knew him in this parish. I knew him intimately for 18 years, knew him as a fine scholar, a man with a wide range of intellectual activities, and a man who was interested in and sympathised with many phases of modern thought. I want in thinking of him to-day to remember the fine example he set by the regularity of his attendance in the house of God. I want to think of him in his individual life as presenting an example in the courtesy of his Christian manner, and the sweet and gracious nature of the man himself."

The principal mourners were:—Mrs. Simpson (widow), Miss Simpson (daughter), Mr. Claude Simpson (son), and Mr. C. J. D. Goodie (brother-in-law). Others who attended were:—Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Street, Mr. Justice Gordon, Judge Docker, Judge Rolin, Judge Curlewis, Professor MacCallum, Captain A. W. M. d'Apice, Messrs. J. T. Lingen, K.C., F. Leverrier, K.C., Hanbury Davies, H. E. Barff (Registrar Sydney University), A. G. Saddington (representing the Chief Justice and Supreme Court staff), F. H. Ward (representing Mr. Justice Harvey), Rev. E. Howard Lea (chairman of the Dubbo Brotherhood), Rev. A. H. Garnsey (St. Paul's College), H. P. Owen (late Master in Equity), J. V. Macken, H. H. Mason, H. Minton-Taylor, Clive Teece, W. M. Vindin, F. E. Barraclough (Deputy Master in Lunacy), R. K. Manning, W. A. Balcombe (Deputy Registrar in Equity, representing Mr. W. A. Parker, the Master in Equity), F. Duboise, W. Crockford (Under-Sheriff), J. R. Jones, W. P. Dixon, H. V. Dixon, Thomas Turner, Rev. A. J. Rolfe, Rev. J. Jones, T. Buckland, E. M. Betts, E. Jeanneret, V. le Gay Brereton, W. A. Windeyer (Mayor of Hunter's Hill), H. R. Lysaght, W. C. Wise (town clerk, Hunter's Hill), Ald. A. K. Moore, A. J. Stopps, H. G. Kilby, S. Gordon Lavers, Gordon V. Lavers, F. W. Walker, T. W. Waldron (representing the family of the late Sir George Dibbs), S. A. Thompson, F. Bethune, J. L. Watkins, J. J. Watkins, W. Newbery, H. J. Carter, W. Adman, and J. H. Silsby.

TRIBUTES BY BENCH AND BAR.

Out of respect for the memory of the late Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson a special sitting of the Full Court was held yesterday to afford the Judges and barristers and solicitors practising in the Supreme Court an opportunity of expressing appreciation of the late Judge and sympathy for his bereaved family. In the absence of the Chief Justice, who is on circuit, Mr. Justice Pring presided over a Bench composed of Mr. Justice Street, Mr. Justice Sly, Mr. Justice Gordon, and Mr. Justice Ferguson. The number of barristers and solicitors present, headed by the Attorney-General and Solicitor-General, made a notable and representative gathering.

Mr. Justice Pring, after referring to his long occupancy of the high and responsible office of Chief Judge in Equity, said that the late Judge "was an eminent lawyer, and brought to the performance of his duties a well-trained judicial mind. Always careful and painstaking his great desire was to do right and justice to all who came before him. He was a man of marked scholarly attainments, and the author of a legal text book which ranks high among treatises on the law. He was also a kindly, courteous gentleman, and quietly and unostentatiously generous. We deplore his loss, and to his widow and children we offer our sincere sympathy, praying that they may be enabled to bear their great trial with fortitude and resignation."

The Attorney-General (Mr. D. R. Hall), on behalf of the New South Wales Bar, said that in these days of supreme heroism we saw many men prepared to die for their country, and amongst that number were members of the family of the deceased Judge. In him, however, we had a man who, in the finest manner, performed the less heroic, and yet perhaps more difficult, task of "living" for his country. They appreciated his work, and there now remained to them but the melancholy duty of paying this all too feeble tribute to his memory, and offering to his sorrowing widow and kinsfolk their sincerest sympathy in their hour of bereavement.

Mr. A. Hemsley, speaking on behalf of the Incorporated Law Institute, and the solicitors of the Supreme Court, said the solicitors would ever hold in grateful remembrance the late Mr. Justice Simpson. Throughout his long career on the Bench his courtesy and consideration to solicitors were most marked. Whenever their duty to clients called upon them personally to conduct matters before him he never allowed their inexperience or deficiency in advocacy to prejudice the rights and interests of the public, or to interfere with the steady stream of justice.

Mr. Justice Gordon, in the Divorce Court, also paid a warm personal tribute to the late Judge, speaking with the feeling grown from a friendship of 40 years.

WOOL-TOP INDUSTRY.

MR. WATT EXPLAINS THE DISPUTE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the House of Representatives to-day Mr. Riley (N.S.W.) referred to the wool top industry carried on by Messrs. F. W. Hughes and Co., and said that since the agreement expired three or four months ago five or six hundred men had been out of employment.

Mr. Watt said the Government proposed that there should be 12½ per cent. return on the company's capital, which would show over 16 per cent. return on the shareholders' investment. The company wanted to know if it was the only one which was to have its profits limited. Eventually the Government made an offer that the company should manufacture tops as the agent of the Commonwealth Government during the war and the continuance of the agreement. Having investigated every way that the members of the Wool Committee were able to suggest, and the company, finding it impossible to comply with any of the requirements, the Government said that the company must use only appraised wool; that the skins were to be fellmongered at some other place, and the proceeds placed in the pool. The company set itself to provide that instead of fellmongering its wool it would contract with other fellmongers to take the green skins. That would have meant that instead of 700 men working at the factory, 400 or 500 would be engaged, and the balance would be absorbed amongst the firm's contractors. That was the position as they left it, and Mr. F. W. Hughes went to work to do it. Mr. Watt was astonished yesterday to find that Mr. Hughes had told the parties that there was no work for them as he could not secure his own wool. Mr. Watt added that that was a breach of the agreement. After carefully inquiring into the matter he was satisfied that there was nothing in the arrangement whatever to stop the Colonial Combing Company and Mr. F. W. Hughes in their joint business in operating in every way as formerly, except one, and that was in regard to green skins. If Mr. Hughes quietly pondered over the position the trouble would be over in a week or two. He told the owners that unless they settled with the Government within a certain time the Government would seize the works. That was not said as a threat but as an intimation. (Laughter.) At one stage of the negotiations the company offered the works to the Government at capital value and service for the period of the war for nothing. The statement that finally brought about the agreement was:—"The Government requests you to take this agreement. Are you going to ignore the request of the Government in war time?" The representatives of the company said that they would take the agreement. A perfectly sound business arrangement had been arrived at, and there was only one link to operate it. He expected Messrs. F. W. Hughes and Co. to operate it in a bona fide way. The agreement was not yet signed. The Government had done all it could to get the men employed.

Mr. Falkiner (N.S.W.) said that the offer made to F. W. Hughes and Co. would have enabled it to make a profit of £1000 a week from an industry that had to get a bounty of £70,000 to carry on. If the old agreement had been interpreted as a continuous one, instead of as being for a term of 12 months, it would have enabled the firm to make a profit of about 53 per cent. on its capital. It was one of the most atrocious and inhuman things he had ever heard of.

ANGLICAN SYNOD.

In the discussion yesterday at the Anglican Synod on the third reading of an ordinance to provide for the superannuation of the Archbishop of Sydney, the Dean of Sydney said it seemed to him a mistake to impose on the standing committee a pecuniary liability, which at the time they might not be able to meet. The standing committee should have the discretion of holding up the retirement until they could make provision for the superannuation allowance.

It was pointed out that an Archbishop could be trusted to use his discretion as to when he would seek to be superannuated.

The third reading of the ordinance was agreed to.

Synod recommended that the city churches should on Jack's Day, November 1, at noon, join in the singing of "Eternal Father, Strong to Save," and, if possible, a joint choir should lead the singing in Martin-place.

The president, replying to the Rev. J. H. Price, said that Australian bishops were styled "lord bishops" in some letters patent and Acts of Parliament. He regarded the terms "my lord" or "your lordship" as courtesy titles, just as reverend was applied to a clergyman.

CLERGYMEN'S STIPENDS.

"It is now 50 years since I was first elected a member of synod, and, as this will probably be the last synod at which I shall have an opportunity of raising my voice in the interests of the Church, it will be my greatest joy if this innovation for the administration of the finances by a central body, which I believe to be in the interests of the Church, is adopted." These and other observations were made by Judge Docker in support of a motion for the centralisation of finance, which was debated by the Anglican Synod last night. His Honor, in a reminiscent vein, recalled the part he took in a controversy many years ago on this very subject. His proposals then—and he considered they held good to-day—were that all funds raised for Church purposes, especially funds for the stipends of the clergy, should be paid into a central fund; to provide machinery for the collection of such moneys as might be available, and provide rules for their distribution. It seemed to him that a minimum stipend should be established, and he came to the conclusion that £300 should be secured to ministers of each parish, and a minimum of £200 to curates and ministers of mission districts. The feature of his scheme was to secure adequate stipends for the clergy. (Applause.)

Archdeacon Martin (Marrickville) wanted to know where the minimum salary was coming from. In the whole of the 138 parishes and districts there were only 15 clergymen who were receiving £400 or over; only 33 clergymen were getting £300 or over. The parishes did not have the money to pay minimum stipends—the clergy had to depend on freewill offerings. Ideally an attempt ought to be made to raise stipends, yet if all the money at present received for that purpose were pooled and divided up stipends would not, in his opinion, exceed £300 a year.

It was agreed that the question of the centralisation of finance should again be taken up by the select committee, in conjunction with the Home Mission Council, with the object of presenting an ordinance at next session of synod.

WOLLONDILLY SEAT.

BOWRAL, Thursday.

The ballot for the selection of a Labour candidate to oppose Mr. G. W. Fuller in the Wollondilly electorate at the next State election resulted:—J. J. Cleary, 348; D. E. Chalker, 153. Mr. Cleary is the town clerk at Picton, and Mr. Chalker unsuccessfully opposed Mr. Fuller at the last election.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN H. E. C. ROSS.

Captain H. E. Clunies Ross, who, prior to enlisting in 1914, was a member of the literary staff of the "Sydney Morning Herald," has died at the Queen Alexandra Hospital in London from malaria, contracted while on active service in German East Africa. He was 27 years of age, and was the second son of the late Mr. W. J. Clunies Ross, lecturer in chemistry and metallurgy at the Sydney Technical College, and Mrs. Clunies Ross, of The Gunyah, Alt-street, Ashfield. Two of his brothers, Sergeant A. Clunies Ross and Private R. Clunies Ross, are serving in France, and his only other brother is a student of veterinary science at the University of Sydney. His uncle, Major Martin Donohoe, the well-known war correspondent, is serving with the Intelligence Corps in Mesopotamia. On enlisting in 1914, Captain Ross went to Egypt with the 19th Battalion, and was promoted to 1st Lieutenant, but he was invalided home in October, 1915, with enteritis. On his recovery in Australia he was promoted to the rank of Captain, and placed in command of the 1st Cyclists' Company, with which, in May, 1916, he went to France. There he was engaged at Messines Ridge and elsewhere. Last year he was transferred from the A.I.F. to the King's African Rifles, and sailed for Africa in September of that year. He contracted malaria in German East Africa after serving there for several months. For a time he was in hospital at Lindi, whence he was transferred to Nairobi, and then he was removed to the Queen Alexandra Hospital in London, where he died on September 27. Captain Ross was a grand-nephew of the late Mr. Clunies Ross, owner of Cocos Island.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE COMMISSIONER.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The salary of the Commissioner for Australia in the United States (Mr. H. Y. Braddon) has been fixed at £3000 per annum. This will date from September 18 last.

ITALIANS IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Alien Restriction Order of 1915 has been amended to provide for the deportation of Italian reservists and conscripts. Every male Italian subject resident in Australia who is not in possession of a certificate issued by the Royal Italian Consul for Australasia, exempting him from compulsory military service with the Italian army, or who has not been exempted from the requirements of that service by the Minister or by competent naval or military authority, shall be deported, and shall forthwith leave and remain out of the Commonwealth.

"THE ENEMY IS BROKEN."

Referring to the dramatic developments in the war situation, the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, said yesterday, during the annual meeting of the City Night Refuge, that we were encouraged to hope that this year we should finally stave off the efforts of the enemy. "We exaggerated their power," he continued. "We did not realise that those citizens who had gone out to fight had been sufficiently trained as to be as good soldiers as their elaborately cultured adversary. You have only to give an intelligent, brave, and self-respecting people time and they will beat any harmful domination. To-day it is Damascus, to-morrow Beyrout. To-day it is Roulers, to-morrow Ostend. To-day it is St. Quentin, to-morrow Cambrai. (Applause.) And more important still, the French are pushing in their vital spot up north from the Champagne country. It depends upon how we can meet the uttermost defences of the enemy whether they get smashed up at once, or whether we may have to fight for some more months to come—months, not years, because the enemy is broken. The thieves have fallen out, and will come up for sentence shortly.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

At the first annual general meeting of members of the City and Suburban Real Estate Agents' Association, held last night, a good deal of stress was laid on the fact that the early difficulties of the association have been surmounted, and that it was a body likely to become a useful one to its members. Pride of place was given in the report to the Real Estate Agents Bill before Parliament, and the board of management recorded a strenuous time in trying to have the bill fashioned more to the liking of estate agents in a small way of business than its original draft provides. The board had vigorously protested against the Valuer-General's Department, which threatened to become the biggest Government department in the State, and co-operation of 139 municipalities and shires in this matter had been obtained. The report and balance-sheet were adopted. Mr. T. Green, honorary solicitor, laid upon the table the certificate of registration of the association under the Companies Act. Mr. R. J. Connolly was re-elected president, Messrs. J. Fanning and G. H. Nicholls vice-presidents. The treasurer and secretary and ten members of the board of management were also re-elected.

DEPENDENTS' DAY.

APPEAL TO WOMEN.

We urge women throughout New South Wales to realise the position of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund.

Ever since our first twenty thousand brave soldiers left these shores the fund has been an unfailing bank upon which their wives and families have been able to draw in times of worry and financial stress. The fund has added to the military allowances of soldiers' dependents, and enabled them to carry on under the stress of doubt and fear through four years of terrible war.

The fund is at an end. Next Tuesday claims amounting to £13,000 must be paid, and it has been found necessary to draw on money collected for "Soldiers' Dependents' Day" to meet this obligation. We want this to be known to every woman. You sent your loved ones to fight, and resolved to care for those left behind on whom the pinch of want might fall. Does not that promise still hold good?

We appeal, therefore, to you to help "Soldiers' Dependents' Day." Induce your husbands to subscribe liberally. Buy house badges, sell house badges, and sell buttons. Help to make this appeal worthy of the cause for which it is instituted. We want your enthusiasm, and feel sure that to ask for is to receive.

VIOLET BENNETT.
MINNIE LEE.
E. MACKINNON.

The organisers report that increased enthusiasm throughout the State heralds the near approach of Soldiers' Dependents' Day. Preparations for the demonstrations throughout the city, suburbs, and country are nearing completion, and almost hourly the organisers are receiving reports from north, south, east, and west indicating a successful appeal on Friday next. The house badge drive is proceeding briskly, and now 61,000 badges have found owners. The drive will continue until 100,000 are disposed of.

At yesterday's meeting of the executive committee it was found necessary to allot £5000 from the new subscriptions to enable the fund to issue the monthly allowances on Tuesday next.

Alderman Richards (who presided, in the absence of the Lord Mayor) mentioned that fortunately the committee was enabled to vote the amount, thanks to the generosity of the donors, who responded to the appeal for urgent subscriptions.

FEDERAL SESSION.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the House of Representatives to-day Mr. Abbott (N.S.W.) asked whether the Government would consider exempting returned soldiers from additional taxation for a period of about twelve months.

Mr. Watt replied that concessions were given under the income tax law to men on service. He would consider whether that concession could be extended to returned men to enable them to restore themselves in business.

Mr. Watt, in reply to a question by Mr. Tudor, said that attention had been given to the question of adopting some simpler form of calculating the income tax. The scheme proposed by Professor Carslaw, of the Sydney University, had been examined, but it was not intended to adopt it.

Mr. Brennan (Vic.) asked Mr. Watt whether, in view of the statement by the representatives of the Crown at the sittings of the recent commission relating to Irish internees that the evidence proved the existence of a treasonable conspiracy, the Government proposed to institute a prosecution against any of the alleged offenders.

Mr. Watt replied that it was not the practice to disclose the intention of the Crown law authorities as to possible offences against the laws of the Commonwealth.

THE SENATE.

In the Senate, the Vice-President of the Executive Council informed Senator Gardiner (N.S.W.) that the restriction on soap from America had not been removed.

The report of the Defence Bill was adopted, and the third reading was made an order of the day for the next sitting.

The debate was continued on the second reading of the Institute of Science and Industry Bill.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council undertook that if the second reading was agreed to not to proceed further in committee until opportunity had been given for consultation with the State Governments and scientists upon various points.

The second reading was then agreed to on the voices, and the bill was taken into committee, progress being reported on the first clause.

The Naval Waters Bill was taken to the report stage.

The Senate adjourned until Thursday next.

LATE MAJOR WESTGARTH.

The remains of Major J. E. Westgarth, late of the 12th Light Horse, who died on Wednesday, were interred yesterday, with military honours, at South Head Cemetery. Lieut. G. W. Rickwood represented the State Commandant, Brigadier-General Lee, and Major H. Stokes, R.A.F.A., represented Col. Osborne, C.O., R.G.A.

The late Major Westgarth was the eldest son of the late Mr. G. E. Westgarth, and saw service in South Africa. After the Boer war he went to England, and held a commission in the Royal Field Artillery. He enlisted in 1914, and went to Rabaul. On his return to Australia he re-enlisted in the Light Horse, and went to Palestine, being invalided back to Australia some months ago.

DEATH OF MRS. LOWTHER CLARKE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The death has occurred suddenly of Mrs. Clarke, wife of the Archbishop of Melbourne, Dr. H. Lowther Clarke.

SIX O'CLOCK CLOSING.

HOBART, Thursday.

On a division by 16 votes to 9, the Government measure to close the whole of the licensed premises at 6 o'clock, and cutting out all temperance bars after that hour, was defeated.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

Patterson Ltd., old-established Toowong sawmills and joinery works, also a fair-sized dwelling, were gutted by fire shortly before midnight.

PROFIT ON MUNITIONS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A return supplied by the Senior Director of Munitions shows that the directorate of munitions during the last eight months has registered a profit of £27,000.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

M'GARVIE SMITH INSTITUTE.

NEW BILLS INTRODUCED.

The Legislative Assembly adjourned at 6.30 o'clock last night, in order to allow members the opportunity of attending the State gala concert in honour of the French Mission. The first-reading stages of a number of new bills were taken.

Mr. Hall, Attorney-General, gave notice of a bill to enable the Judges of the Supreme Court to make regulations under which poor people would be able to secure the best legal advice free of charge when they had good cases but no money to press them forward.

Mr. Gardiner asked the Attorney-General if it was a fact that a number of the leading members of the Bar had withdrawn their opposition to political appointments to the Judiciary in favour of the member for Petersham and Speaker, Mr. Cohen.

Mr. Hall said the question did credit to Mr. Gardiner's imagination. It was entirely a matter of imagination.

ANTHRAX VACCINE FORMULA.

Mr. Oakes asked the Premier if the late Mr. M'Garvie Smith had made a present to the State of his secret for the preservation of the anthrax vaccine; if the formula had been lodged in a private bank in the names of Dr. Wall, M.L.C., and Dr. Tidswell; if it was a fact that these scientists did not recognise that the Government had any authority over the formula; if, out of the £10,000 made available by the late Mr. M'Garvie Smith, £1500 had already been paid to these two medical men for experimental tests; and if they had been appointed to positions in connection with the M'Garvie Smith Institute involving an expenditure of £3500 per annum?

Mr. Holman, in reply, said that all the correspondence and papers in connection with the matter would be laid on the table of the House. He had that afternoon received a letter from the chairman of the institute, Mr. Waddell, M.L.C., replying specifically to a number of questions which he (the Premier) had put, with the authority of the Cabinet; but as he had not yet read the letter he would not make any comment on it. So far as the formula was concerned, the description of the process was imparted to Dr. Wall at the request of the State Government. A deed of gift had been drawn up, which was at the present moment the subject of legal determination; but it was clear that the late Mr. M'Garvie Smith intended either to give it to the Government or to the Government in combination with the pastoralists.

GOVERNMENT TRAWLERS.

Answering Mr. F. M. Burke, the Premier (Mr. Holman) said he did not intend to grant a Royal Commission to inquire into the Government trawling industry. The particulars given by Mr. Burke upon the department when debating the Estimates were obtained from a dismissed employee, and were absolutely untrue.

SOLDIERS' WIDOWS.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Hall), in answer to Mr. Kearsley, said that no specific instance had come under his notice of exorbitant fees having been charged by agents in connection with obtaining transfers of the property of their deceased soldier husbands, but he believed instances had occurred. If particulars of such cases were given him he would go into them.

STATE HOSPITALS.

The Premier (Mr. Holman) said some statements had been published in the Press regarding remarks made by the Governor on State hospitals, in which his Excellency expressed a hope that from the callousness which he had seen exhibited in State hospitals he hoped such hospitals would never be known in this State. His Excellency had authorised him to say that what was in his mind when he made these remarks was the state of things in some European capitals, particularly Vienna, where the surgeons exhibited toward the occupants of free beds the utmost callousness. At the time he spoke he did not know that this matter had come into the realm of practical politics in Australia, and from what he now knew of the management of Australian hospitals, he had no fear that the abuses which he had in mind when speaking would ever creep into them.

WOMEN'S STATUS BILL.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Hall), moving in committee the expediency of introducing a bill to provide that women should be eligible to practise certain professions, said it was intended to remove certain disqualifications under which women at present labour. They would be eligible to become members of Parliament, to become Lord Mayor of Sydney, or an alderman, to become Mayors or aldermen or shire presidents or councillors, special magistrates, justices of the peace, to practise as barristers or solicitors.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill read a first time.

COMPANIES (REGISTRATION OF SECURITIES) BILL.

Mr. Hall (Attorney-General) moved in committee the expediency of bringing in a bill to amend the law relating to companies, and said it was proposed under it to provide that when a company gave debentures over its securities, those debentures should be registered within 30 days. This was the only State of the Commonwealth in which such a law was not in force, and the intention of the bill was to prevent secret debentures being issued to defeat ordinary creditors.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill introduced and read a first time.

NEW BILLS.

It was decided, on the motion of the Minister for Mines (Mr. Fitzpatrick), to consider at the next sitting the expediency of introducing a bill to amend the Coal Mines Regulation Act.

The Closer Settlement Amendment Bill was introduced by the Minister for Lands (Mr. Ashford), and read the first time, the second reading being fixed for the next sitting.

The Crown Lands Leases' Withdrawal Bill was introduced and read the first time, the second reading being fixed for the next sitting.

The Land Surveyors' Bill, to provide, among other things, for the registration of surveyors, was also taken through its initial stages. The second reading was set down for the next sitting.

Another of the measures introduced by the Minister for Lands was the Irrigation Amendment Bill, which was read the first time, the second reading being fixed for the next sitting.

On the motion of Mr. Bruntnell, a select committee to inquire into and report upon the case of Mr. A. G. Robertson, formerly employed by the Public Works Department, was agreed upon.

At 6.15 p.m. the House was adjourned until Tuesday next.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The second reading of the Loan Bill was carried after a short debate, and the measure passed through its remaining stages.

The House then adjourned until Wednesday next.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Epsom candidate, The Destroyer, worked at Victoria Park yesterday morning on the outer half of the course proper. After cantering a mile he stretched out for three furlongs, which he cast behind him in 38s. He was piloted by F. Russell. The Derby colt, Carbern, and William the Silent got over nine furlongs in 2m 4½s, the last mile in 1m 49½s.

BIPLANE GONE LAME.

The New Zealand horse Biplane worked fairly well on the training track at Randwick yesterday morning, but subsequently, when he got cold, he developed decided symptoms of lameness. On returning to his quarters, R. J. Mason, his trainer, sent for Major J. D. Stewart, V.S., who examined the horse, and found the seat of trouble in the roundbone of the off-fore leg and the muscles of the croup, whereupon his owner, Mr. G. D. Greenwood, decided that the horse will not fulfil his A.J.C. spring engagements nor will he be sent to Victoria, but will return to New Zealand at an early date, and will be treated to a lengthy spell.

Mr. Greenwood was greatly disappointed when it was recognised that Biplane would not be able to run at the A.J.C. meeting, and took immediate steps to let the public know his decision, so that there would not be any money lost on it. In his Randwick engagements Biplane's winnings were to be devoted to patriotic purposes, and Mr. Greenwood has decided that should Gloaming win a race of an equivalent value to the prize which Biplane may have won the money will be handed over to patriotic purposes.

Biplane held engagements in the three big w.f.a. races at Randwick, the Spring Stakes, Craven Plate, and Randwick Plate, in which the New Zealand champion, Desert Gold, is also engaged, and racegoers were looking forward to the great rivals fighting for supremacy, but yesterday's developments render it impossible this spring.

RANDWICK TRAINING NOTES.

FINAL DERBY AND EPSOM GALLOPS.

SIR PADDINGTON'S RECORD.

The abnormal cold of yesterday morning at Randwick greatly affected man and beast, and even men from the coldest parts of New Zealand and Victoria acknowledged its intensity. A strong overnight wind left the course proper void of top moisture, and though the hurdles were well out, some smashing records were expected, but only a few horses were on watch-breaking missions, and of these Sir Paddington was the morning star. There was a very large crowd present. There were horseowners from every State in the Commonwealth, as well as New Zealand—which was very strongly represented—and a big contingent of pressmen representing different States.

Publican was one of the first out, and went on the A track. He travelled about half a mile at a useful pace, then rattled off six furlongs in 1m 20s. Gloaming and Biplane were bracketed for a six-furlong bout, out of which Gloaming came with honours. He won by a length in 1m 18s, but seemingly had the better of the weights. Poitrina did not try to make time over a short course; but Desert Gold ran seven furlongs in 1m 30s, carrying a lightish weight. She ran the first six in 1m 16½s. This was done early in the morning, but later, about 7.30, Sir Paddington ran seven furlongs in 1m 29½s, the first six in 1m 15½s. He, too, was ridden by a lightweight, and was lightly shod.

George Graves and Wolaroi also went well over the seven furlongs course. The former went alone, and, carrying Bracken, covered it in 1m 31½s; and Wolaroi, with McLachlan up, ran outside three horses and badly beat Eastcourt, who in turn defeated Killarron and First Rain. Wolaroi was not ridden out, and ran the last seven of eight furlongs in 1m 31½s. His mile occupied 1m 46s. Wolaroi was booked to leave for Melbourne to-night. He is to finish his Caulfield Cup preparation at Caulfield. Outlook, with K. Lewis up, was sent seven furlongs with My Valentine in the presence of his owner, Mr. S. P. Mackay, who arrived from Western Australia the previous day. My Valentine was not much use to Outlook, who ran the journey in 1m 31½s, and pulled up well.

The New Zealand colt Finmark beat Killowen over the seven furlongs in 1m 31s; but he did not carry as much weight as Outlook. Another New Zealand Derby candidate, Almoner, covered the mile and a quarter course well, carrying Bracken over it in 2m 17s. Camp Out helped him over the last seven furlongs. His countryman, Estland, with a lightweight up, ran a mile and a quarter in 2m 15s; and Thana put it past in 2m 16½s, but neither of these gallops compared with that done by Lingle, who, with a light weight up, ran the mile and a quarter in 2m 14s, the last mile of it in 1m 44s. Woorawa galloped six furlongs usefully, and a strong working ten furlongs' gallop was given Poitrel and Two Blues; while Panacre was let off with even-time pacing work.

Dick Meagher went attractively over nine furlongs, in 2m 1½s, and made very much better time than Prince Viridis, who was heavily shod. Over nine furlongs Arch Marella (minus his shoes) beat Cerise Colours by several lengths, and the latter was some lengths in front of Kennaquhair, who, with Barnett up, carried some weight, and Arch Marella did the trip in 2m 1s, and Kennaquhair ran it in 2m 1¾s. Cagou pulled over Kandos at the end of nine furlongs, which this everlasting old son of Ayr Laddie ran in 2m 1s. Cagou has had a lengthy career on the racecourse, but he is still brilliant and juvenile looking, and is going better than when he won his second Metropolitan last year. Amadis, who badly beat Verdun, ran nine furlongs in 2m 3½s. New Zealand badly beat The Fortune Hunter over 10 furlongs, in 2m 19s, and Rebus did the concluding eight of nine furlongs in 1m 48s. There was nothing to choose between Redfern and Fight Ever at the close of seven furlongs, run in 1m 32s, a distance which Amberdown and Lordacre traversed with plenty to spare in 1m 32s. Norbury did an easy task, and Black Earl defeated Satin Bird over seven furlongs in 1m 33s, while Tresag traversed seven furlongs in 1m 33½s. Varcotine beat Elfacre over half a mile in 50½s, and Gambler's Gold was too good for Almsgiver and Birthday, over the same course, in 51s.

RAILWAY RATES.

INCREASES INEVITABLE.

A further statement made by the Premier last night indicates that an all-round increase in railway freights and fares is inevitable. The only question for the Cabinet now is whether the increase shall be on a 10 per cent. or a 5 per cent. basis.

"The railway figures for the quarter were laid before Mr. Fitzpatrick (Assistant Treasurer) and myself," said Mr. Holman last night. "Although they show a very marked advance over the revenue for the corresponding three months of last year, that advance is not by any means of a satisfactory character. When the Treasury adopted the estimates of the Commissioners, they showed an increase of, roughly, £800,000, as against the previous year, but it was made clear by the Commissioners that by far the greater part of this increase should be realised within the first three months, because that was the period of last year when the railway revenue was depressed far below normal because of the strike.

"These three months have now ended, and the estimated increase has not been realised," added the Premier. "At the same time the estimated increase of working expenses has been very much more than realised. With the new minimum wage to be paid, there will be a further increase still on the estimated working expenses for the remaining nine months of the year. All these factors taken together make up a situation which is very far from satisfactory. The whole matter will be submitted to the Cabinet on Tuesday next, when important decisions may be arrived at."

I.W.W. INQUIRY.

At yesterday's continuation of the inquiry by Mr. Justice Street, Royal Commissioner, into the conduct of the police in connection with the I.W.W. fire cases in 1916, Inspector Charles Turbet was examined by Mr. Shand, K.C., appearing on behalf of the Crown. The witness, detailing his investigation in the forged note case, said that he neglected no avenue that would lead to the conviction of the Goldsteins. He had not received any money from the Goldsteins, or from Lazarus, or anyone else, on their behalf, in order to make it light for them. There was absolutely no truth in such a suggestion, and he knew of nothing of the sort in connection with other detectives.

The inquiry was adjourned until to-day.

BROKEN HILL AND THE WAR.

BROKEN HILL, Thursday.

The debate between Mr. Arthur Griffith, ex-M.L.A., and Mr. Considine, M.P., as to whether the latter correctly represents the views of Broken Hill unionists on war matters, is to be held at the Broken Hill Trades Hall on October 12.

COST OF HOUSING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The statement I made in the Legislative Council during the discussion on the question of the shortage of houses, "that after the war the purchasing power of money would be greater, and consequently those who purchased or built houses at present prices would find the value of their properties reduced by a third, if not more," has been challenged by Mr. Dart, secretary of the City and Suburban Real Estate Agents' Association, who says it would be interesting to know how I arrive at such a conclusion. With your permission, I will endeavour to satisfy Mr. Dart and his association. Before doing so, may I remind Mr. Dart that it would be interesting to know how he arrives at some of his conclusions, notably the one that the whole of Europe has to be rebuilt after the war. Considerable portions of Belgium and France have no doubt been destroyed, and will, let us hope, be rebuilt, but I have heard of no proposal to rebuild the whole of Europe, and cannot accept it as an important factor in determining the cost of building workmen's dwellings in New South Wales. Economic problems are settled by reasoning, not by imagining. The abnormal increased cost and price of dwellings to-day is due entirely to the existence of war conditions, and it is surely reasonable to suppose that with the end of the war, and the disappearance of war conditions, house values will swing back to the pre-war rate, or, at least, something near it. The war conditions mainly responsible for increased prices are as follows:—The expenditure for war purposes by the Commonwealth Government up to June 30 last was over £184,000,000, nearly £160,000,000 of which was loan money. From one-half to two-thirds of the gross amount is computed to have been spent locally. The inevitable effect of enforcing the expenditure of such vast sums of money is to appreciate the value of commodities, including building material, and to the same extent depreciate the purchasing power of money. This is part of the law of supply and demand. The effective supply of purchasing power has been increased, while the supply of building material has been diminished, on account of other war conditions, such as the shortage of shipping and limited production on account of the shortage of labour, workmen being fighting instead of producing. These are not permanent but abnormal conditions that will end with the end of the war. When war loan expenditure ceases people owning money or credit (its commercial equivalent) will be free to do with it what they like; they will not be forced to spend it as they are now, and there will be much less to spend, so much having been already spent by the Government to carry on the war. The reason why builders refrain from building now is simple enough; the cost of material is prohibitive. The house would cost too much, they would be unable to get any return for their money. They are waiting until houses can be produced cheaper, which is my whole contention that the cost value of houses built now will not be maintained after the war.

Not content with objecting to my statement that the value of houses would decrease after the war, Mr. Dart ventures the opinion that if I had said the values would increase by a third I would have been nearer the mark. Perhaps that is so, but I am not equal to supposing that by removing what causes the increases in house values you will cause another increase. That, it must be admitted, is a new law in economics, if not in physics, and I am not yet familiar with it. I am, etc.,

WHO PAYS INCOME TAX?

Who pays income tax and who pays the greater portion of the income tax?—These questions are particularly interesting just now when the Federal tax is to be increased, and as far as the Federal tax is concerned we can answer them from papers laid on the table of the House of Representatives by the Treasurer. The latest figures are for 1916-17. The returns for 1917-18 have not yet been analysed. In 1916-17 there were 216,354 taxpayers, and the amount of tax assessed was £5,868,482. How the different incomes contributed to the tax is seen from the following comparison:—

INCOME TAX, 1916-17.

Income.	No. of taxpayers.	Tax assessed.	Amt. per tax-payer.	Percentage total tax assessed.
Under £200	139,943	193,392	1.374	3.3
£200 to £500	41,748	314,311	7.528	5.3
£500 to £1000 ..	19,925	477,784	23.981	8.2
£1000 to £10,000	14,163	2,766,080	195.318	47.2
£10,000 to £100,000	527	1,868,865	3,479.823	31.8
Over £100,000 ..	16	248,670	15,541.875	4.2
	216,354	5,868,482	27.124	100

If we analyse these figures we find that £4,884,015, or 83.2 per cent. of the total tax, was assessed to individuals in receipt of an income exceeding £1000. Those individuals numbered 14,718, or 6.8 per cent. of the taxpayers. In other words, 6.8 per cent. of the taxpayers were assessed for 83.2 per cent. of the tax. There is no better exemplification of what wealth contributes in taxation.

INCOME AND WAR-TIME PROFITS TAXES.

"Constant Reader."—No, unless the income falls below the exemption. "Anxious".—Yes, if in the estate. "Jan."—No. The Federal tax on companies is charged on that portion of the income which is not distributed. "Liberal."—The tax of 10 per cent. on prizes in lotteries was imposed by the Act of September, 1917. "Registered Volunteer."—It is impossible to say on the particulars furnished. You may receive a larger allowance at the discretion of the Commissioner, and your income prior to engaging in the business may be taken into consideration.

COMPANY NEWS.

Mr. E. W. Fosbery, C.M.G., M.L.C., has resigned from the position of director of the Bank of New South Wales on account of ill-health, and the vacancy thus caused has been filled by the appointment of Mr. F. B. S. Falkiner, M.P.

The Australian Paper Mills, Ltd., has resolved to increase its capital by 100,000 new shares of £1 each. The number of shares to be issued is 53,500, and they will be offered to shareholders at par, on the basis of one new share for every two shares now held. Permission has been received from the Treasury for the issue of 43,000 of the company's existing unallotted shares, and 10,500 of the new shares for cash.

LEATHER EXPORT.

Mr. A. Bayley, president of the Master Tanners' Association of New South Wales, writes:—

Sir,—I desire to reply to "Trader's" letter under the above heading in the issue of October 2.

Your article was a very fair and correct epitome of the position, but your correspondent's letter does not deal fairly with the case, and besides contains many half truths that are harder to refute than actual mis-statements. He refers to large quantities of leather being held by exporters, which is correct. These firms are mostly agents for English importers, and, being aware of the great need for our leather in Great Britain, have evidently considered it a good speculation to buy in the hopes of an early resumption of shipping. The fact of having bought the leather has to some extent relieved the strain on the tanners, many of whom had already considerably reduced their operations on account of the embargo. Your correspondent has evidently overlooked the principal trouble with which the tanners are at present faced.

Large quantities of leather are required by the Defence Department for military boots, and in order to make the selection and quantity required it will be necessary to tan a very much larger quantity than the local civilian trade can absorb. It is this surplus for which a market must be found if the military requirements are to be met, and the only outlet for this surplus is Great Britain. The class of hides that have been shipped to Great Britain since shipping restrictions on leather have been imposed have been mostly "kips" and inferior ones, and practically of very little use to the tanner here for either civilian or military purposes, as they would make only low grade leather.

The Prime Minister's Department and the Leather Industries Board have evidently been seized with the seriousness of the position.

Your correspondent admits that repeated efforts have been made to facilitate the export of leather by those departments, but without success. The fact that moderate shipments (not large, as your correspondent states) have been sent to India and South Africa has also helped in a small degree to relieve the position; but, notwithstanding this, leather has continued to accumulate until, as stated in your article, fully a million pounds' worth is now held in Australia awaiting shipment, so that if the Defence Department's requirements are to be met an outlet must be found for our surplus products.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

There was a good distributing demand for groceries yesterday. Lemon and orange peel sold freely at the reduced rate of /8½. Citron peel was slightly firmer at 1/1. There was a phenomenally strong inquiry for dried fruits at the fixed rates. On the other hand tinned fruits are quiet. Peaches and pears were held for 11/6, but pineapples were offered at from 9/ to 9/3. Amongst tinned fish American herrings were cheaper. Fresh herrings were offered at 12/, and herrings in tomatoes at 12/6. Kippered herrings were scarce, and commanded 14/6. There was no movement in salmon or sardines. Meats of all descriptions were quiet. Fresh supplies of salt were available. Fine was quoted at £8, and coarse at £10 a ton. Eastern produce cleared freely. Tapioca was easier. Seed was to be had in small lots at 28/ and pearl at 29/ per cwt. Rice was steady. Whole ginger realised /10½, and ground ginger /11. Sales of canary seed were booked at from 38/ to 40/ per cwt. Loquats.—6/ to 12/ a half-case.

Strawberries (Queensland).—2/6 to 5/ a tray.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

Bright conditions prevailed at the Vegetable Markets yesterday, and brisk sales were reported, generally at the high rates now holding. Owing to light consignments coming to hand, cauliflowers moved up 1/ per dozen. Heavy produce was firm at late rates. White onions were more plentifully supplied, and dropped 1/ per dozen bunches.

Ruling rates were:—

Cabbages.—Local, 4/ to 8/; cauliflowers, 5/ to 9/; lettuce, 1/6 to 2/6 per dozen.

Sweet potatoes, 14/ to 16/; onions, Spanish, 30/ to 40/; Swede turnips, 8/ to 10/; potatoes, local, 7/ to 8/; Tasmanian, Brownells, Plunketts, and Commonwealths, 9/; Victorian, 7/ to 7/6; pumpkins, local, 18/ to 20/ per cwt.

Tomatoes.—Queensland, 15/ per half-bushel case.

STATION PRODUCE SALES.

The Sydney Wool-selling Brokers' Association reports:—

Tallow: At yesterday's auctions 204 casks were catalogued, as against 216 at the previous sales. A generally weaker market ruled, and, in order to do business, a reduction of about 15/ per ton had to be accepted on all but inferior grades, which were unchanged. Prime butchers' mixed, £41/15/ to £42 per ton; exceptional lines to £42/5/; good, £40/15/ to £41/10/; medium, £40 to £40/10/; inferior, £38/10/ to £39/10/; broken packages, £33 to £35.

Hair, Bones, and Sundries: Supplies were large and representative. Horsehair had a good inquiry, and best lots occasionally made higher prices, while cow-hair ruled firm. Best round and flat shanks, thighs, buttocks, shins, and hoofs sold at slightly improved figures, but sinews failed to reach last sales' extreme rates. Horsehair to /21 per lb; cowhair to /21; cow stumps to /6; round shank bones to £15/10/ per ton; flat shank bones, to £15; mixed shank bones to £13; thigh bones, to £26/10/; shins to £6/10/; buttocks to £20; shin bones to £24; white hoofs to £21/5/; black hoofs to £25/20/; striped hoofs to £27/15/; mixed hoofs to £20; sinews to £50; hide-pieces to £34; pizzles to £24; muzzles to £15; knuckles to £6; scrolls to £10/15/.

Bark: A brisk private inquiry prevails at the following levels of values: Best £10 to £11 per ton; medium, £8/10/ to £9/10/; light, £6 to £7/10/; inferior, £4 to £5/10/.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP.

A FALL IN VALUES.

There was a heavy yarding of sheep and lambs at Homebush yesterday, the largest for many months. The total in the pens reached 30,762. With such an offering it soon became evident that the high prices ruling of late could not be maintained. At the opening the market was irregular, and generally cheaper. The fall was anything from 1/ to 3/, and in places more. The sheep-breeding centres were well represented on the consignment notes. The owners interested totalled 135. The quality of the market was a good average one. Many of the sheep were in splendid condition. All classes in both merinos and crossbreds were represented, with a fair sprinkling of lambs. While most of the pens contained woolly sheep, both prime and plain sorts, yet there was also a big supply of shorn sheep, and these were in demand at the reduced rate. The fall, however, on shorn sheep was more pronounced than on heavy woolly sorts. The attendance of buyers was quite up to the average, all sections of the wholesale and retail trade competing; yet there was ample for all requirements. The best line of merino wethers again came from Wyvern station at Bringagee. There were 570 in the draft, and they were sold by Dalgety and Co. to 55/4, with an average of 51/5. G. Davidson, of Stockinbingal, forwarded a draft of 304 merino wethers, which Maiden Bros. sold to 55/, with an average of 50/3. The best price for cross wethers was 53/10, and was obtained by Wilkinson and Lavender for a line which came from T. L. Tyson, of Hay. The same firm also sold on behalf of M. Rutledge, of Hay, 463 merino wethers, which made to 54/10, and averaged 50/3. John Bridge and Co. had a few cross wethers from M. Ball, of Gundagai, which realised to 52/10, while Hill, Clark, and Co. had a small line from western agents, which made to 51/10.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From Wyvern Station, at Bringagee, 570 w to 55/4; from J. S. M'Culloch, of Carathool, x w to 42/4, and x e to 47/10; from T. H. Templeton, Bygalorie, x w to 43/10; from J. Kendall, of The Rock, x w to 47/10, and x e to 45/10; from J. Ewart, at The Rock, x e to 47/6; from Jarrandale Estate, of Gular, w to 35/; from W. C. a'Beckett, of Wellington, x w to 38/9; from J. Robins, of Coolamon, x w to 45/7; from Armstrong Bell, Ltd., of Willbriggie, shorn x w to 37/7; from T. L. Tyson, of Hay, x w to 53/10, and w to 48/10; from M. Rutledge, of Hay, 463 w to 54/10; from J. Gibson, of Hay, w to 48/10; from M. Brennan, of Widgiewa, w to 42/4; from S.A.L. Company, of Henty, w to 42/10; from G. T. Esplin, of Hay, w to 45/; from A. Mill, of Gunning Bland, x h to 41/7; from R. J. M'Cauley, of Bogan Gate, x w to 39/11; from A. Patrick, of Narromine, x w to 48/1; from A. M'Keown, of Bogan Gate, x w to 39/; from R. Grant, of Bogan Gate, x w to 50/; from T. Fisher, of Milvale, x h to 37/4; from J. Hawke, of Trangie, x w to 43/; from G. Davidson, of Stockinbingal, 304 w to 55/; from H. E. Randall, of Tarcoon, w to 36/9; from A. Bernolds, of Stockinbingal, x h to 39/2; from J. T. Gavel, of Condobolin, x e to 40/; from J. Kearney, of Albert, x e to 41/10; from J. Brown, of Currabubula, x w to 42/, and x w to 45/, x e to 42/.

to 36/4; from S. J. Fennell, of Brewarrina, w to 37/; from J. Campbell and Sons, of Carrathool, x h to 37/8; from Alex. Ross, of Craboon, w to 36/2; from M. Fennell, of Brewarrina, x h to 35/6; from western agents, 38 x w at 51/10.

Quotations: Crossbred wethers, prime to 56/6, best 52/10, good to 28/; crossbred ewes, prime to 34/6, best to 55/4, good to 30/; merino, prime wethers to 43/, best to 55/4, good to 30/; ewes, prime to 33/, best to 40/.

LAMBS.

There was a fairly large supply of lambs, including suckers. The tone of the market was decidedly weaker for all except extra prime lambs, which were rather scarce. A few cross lambs from James Barry, of Forbes, sold to 36/10. A line of 206 cross suckers, from M'Alister Bros., of Bibaree, made to 27/2, and averaged 24/. There were 159 cross lambs from J. Collier, of Bogan Gate, which realised to 37/, and averaged 34/4. A pen of 202 suckers, from C. F. Campbell, of Carrathool, sold to 26/6, and averaged 25/.

CATTLE.

MARKET UNALTERED.

High prices again prevailed at the cattle sales yesterday. The market opened a little lower than the best of Monday's advanced rates, but it quickly improved, and on the day's transactions there was not any material alteration. The yarding, which comprised 1290 head, from 56 owners, included 275 Queensland cattle. The quality of the yarding was excellent—one of the best seen for some time. All classes were represented, from small calves to heavy bullocks and prime cows. The condition of most of the cattle indicated the return of plenty of good grass in many portions of the State. There was the usual attendance of buyers, all sections of the trade being well represented. Competition was keen, and the sales proceeded briskly. The market remained firm until the close. The highest class bullocks came from Miss Claughton, of Willbriggie. There were 16 of these, and Wilkinson and Lavender sold the line to £33/16/, with an average of £29/1/6. Maiden Bros. had six bullocks, from Steel Caldwell, of Young, which realised to £32/6/, and averaged £31/11/. There was another yarding of 88 bullocks from S. Kidman, of Tilberoo station, Queensland. These Pitt, Son, and Badgery sold to £30/17/, with an average of £27/14/8. This was the balance of the draft of 284 bullocks which came from this station, and were sold by Pitt, Son, and Badgery this week, with an average on the whole line of £27. This, it is claimed, is a record average for such a large line of bullocks in the Sydney markets. The sale totalled £7680. The same firm yesterday sold 135 bullocks which came from Bundure station, at Bundure. These made to £30/1/, and averaged £27/2/1. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin also handled several large lines of cattle. They sold for E. Carter, of Wallangarra, 103 Queensland bullocks and steers, which made to £24/10/, and averaged £21/7/, and for E. Jones, of Wallangarra, 86 Queensland bullocks and steers to £24/1/1, with an average of £21. The New Zealand Loan and M. A. Company secured the best price for cows, viz., £28/11/. There was only one yard of four, and they averaged £22/17/3. They came from A. P. Wade.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From C. O'Brien, of Widgiwa, 27 bks to £25/11/, avg. £23/17/2; from J. and H. Leitch, of Wagga, 55 steers to £21/6/, avg. £20; from Southern agents, of Willbriggie, 55 steers to £24/18/6, avg. £22/1/; from Miss Claughton, of Hay, 16 bks to £33/16/1, avg. £29/1/6; from J. S. Robertson, of Carrathool, 10 steers, to £25/16/, avg. £25/12/3; from R. A. Berey, 19 bks to £25/9/; from Willandra Pastoral Company, of Hay, 50 bks and steers to £23/6/, avg. £21/15/; from E. Carter, of Wallangarra, 103 bks and steers to £24/10/, avg. £21/7/; from A. J. Haylock, 19 bks, to £29/10/, avg. £27/15/, and 7 cows to £20/1/, avg. £18/4/; from estate of the late J. J. McNickle, of Bomen, 19 steers to £21/19/, avg. £20/11/; from E. Jones, of Wallangarra, 86 bks and steers to £24/1/, avg. £21; from Bundure station, at Bundure, 135 bks to £30/1/, avg. £27/2/10; from J. Edwards, 80 bks to £26/1/, avg. £24/18/6; from S. Kidman, of Tilberoo station, Queensland, 88 bks to £30/17/, avg. £27/14/8; from Steel Caldwell, of Young, 6 bks to £32/6/, avg. £31/11/; from H. Campbell, Son, and Co., of Warren, 6 steers to £27, avg. £26/3/6; from southern agents, 8 bks to £32/9/, avg. £26/8/3.

Quotations: Prime heavy bullocks to £36/10/, odd animals to £33/16/, prime medium-weight to £29, prime light to about £17; trade bullocks from £10 to £17 according to weight. Cows: Prime heavy to about £24/10/, odd beasts to £28/11/, good to about £14.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR MONDAY.

Owing to Monday being a public holiday there will be no sales at Homebush yards on that day.

HOMEBUSH STOCK TRUCKINGS.

October 10, 415 sheep and 198 cattle waggons. October 14, 205 sheep and 76 cattle waggons. October 17, 96 sheep and 76 cattle waggons. October 21, 13 sheep waggons.

MINING.

The announcement of continued Allied successes in France and Palestine synchronised with a further marking down in prices of scrip of companies producing industrial metals. It has long been a prevalent opinion that the market for industrial metals would react from the present high quotations immediately after the war, and that prices have already come down may be an indication of the belief that the end of the war has been brought appreciably nearer by reason of developments of the past week or two. Warnings by Allied leaders against over-optimism must, however, discount the belief that the war will end quickly. In any case, as regards the lead contract, which expires on December 31 next, the renewal of the contract by the British Government is regarded as assured on many grounds, among which the necessity of keeping Australian lead out of German hands must rank of paramount importance. B.H. South fell to £13, and Norths closed 2/6 lower at 64/. British, after an initial recovery to 51/, slumped to 48/6, and B.H. Proprietary declined from 69/6 to 68/6. Junction, con., closed /4 lower at 6/5, and Junction North receded a few pence to 13/1. Copper propositions were dull also. Cuthberts eased /1 to 9/, and an odd parcel of Mount Morgan was taken at 30/6, a fall of /10½. Business in industrial metal stocks overshadowed dealing in tin and gold mines, but the depression extended to these sections. Operations among gold interests were listless and devoid of important movement. Edna May Deeps recovered /2 to 16/3, but Consols sagged /1½ to 15/10½. In the tin group, however, an easier trend was noted. Carpathias sold on a lower basis, and Tongkah Harbour fell to 63/. Mammoth Molybdenite changed hands at 8/3, a decline of /9.

STOCK EXCHANGE SALES.

The following mining sales were listed:—

Copper.—Hampden, 18/2, Mt. Cuthbert, 9/; Mt. Morgan, odd lot (50 shares), 30/6.

NOTES.

The Kampong Kamunting dredges ran 1335 hours during the month of September, and treated 181,000 cubic yards of ground for a return of 82 tons of tin oxide, which realised £13,740, or £167/11/2 per ton. The average recovery was 1.01lb per cubic yard.

The Tongkah Compound dredge recovered 24 tons of tin oxide during the month of September in a run of 555 hours, in which 54,828 cubic yards were passed over the tables. The average recovery in this case was .98lb per cubic yard.

During the four weeks ended September 11 the B.H. Proprietary Block 10 Company's mill ran on Block 10 and Block 14 ores as follows:—

	Block 10. Tons.	Block 14. Tons.	Total Tons.
Crude ore treated	2066	874	2940
Lead concentrates produced	303	179	482
Zinc concentrates produced	412	186	598

The mill was closed down from August 28 to September 16 owing to coal shortage.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

Since Wednesday a remarkable slump has taken place in barometric values in south-eastern Australia, where the strong "high" which assisted in producing the extremely cold weather is now only represented by one isobar 30.1 inches. The latter is in occupation of New South Wales, Victoria, and Tasmania, and should be associated with fine weather generally, except for a coastal shower or two, and increasing temperature, though another cold, frosty night is indicated, with coastal fogs. Owing to the filling up of the recent disturbance over the Tasman Sea, the squally southerly winds have lost their character, so, generally speaking, wind in our State should tend east and north-east, and thus herald the approach from the west of another disturbance. The latter has worked about 800 miles eastward in the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. on Thursday, and is now over South Australia, where it is attended with cloudy and unsettled weather. On Friday this disturbance should affect our western districts and extend eastward over the State, and by the end of the week scattered rain with thunder should be experienced. Should the present rate of easting be maintained, a "high" from Western Australia should bring southerly winds again to the west, and later over the State before Monday, and may possibly co-operate with the eastern depressions in producing scattered rain.

Ocean Forecast.—Generally smooth to moderate.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE ACTORS' MATINEE.

The matinee at Her Majesty's yesterday in aid of the Actors' Association Benevolent Fund did not draw quite a full house, a fact all the more surprising in view of the varied allurements of the programme, and the established generosity of dramatic artists individually, and as a body, in helping other people. Absent playgoers missed heaps of good things, including the first production in Australia of that blood-curdling tragedy, "The Monkey's Paw." W. W. Jacobs' story was set in the homely sitting-room of a late but aged couple, Mr. and Mrs. White, on a certain blustering night at Fulham, London. Their old friend, Sergeant-major Morris, ably impersonated with bluff, soldierly characteristics by Arthur Styan, exhibits to them a dried-up monkey's paw. An Indian fakir has used it as a spell, and the possessor is certain to be granted three wishes, but in some mysterious way death and disaster come with them. In the drama old White wishes for £200 to pay off the mortgage on his house, and receives the money through the electrical company's works where his only son has just met with a fatal accident. His other two wishes, by which horrors accumulate, need not be explained; sufficient to add that J. B. Atholwood had made a telling study of the central character, with Katie Towers as Mrs. White, faithful wife and fond mother; Harold Moran as the light-hearted son, and Frederick Cope as the bearer of evil tidings.

The second act of "The Man Who Came Back," by the Muriel Starr Company, Mr. Sydney James and party in that cleverly-acted sketch, "The Night Watchman," and Minnie Love and Leslie Holland in a scene from "The Merry Widow," were central features; and a long list of popular artists, including George Darrell in the spirited recitation of his own poems, "Around the Dardanelles" and "The Anzacs," contributed to a first-rate entertainment. Mr. T. E. Foster was general stage manager.

"AS YOU LIKE IT."

A creditable rendering of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" was given in St. James's Hall last night by the Women Shakespeare Players under the direction of Miss Eleanor Ross, and the large audience received it with very marked approval. The players had not the modern advantage of scenery; the play was acted "in curtains," and the scenes—near Oliver's house, Duke Frederick's Court, and the Forest of Arden—were indicated by the printed cards displayed before the scenes were presented, as was done in the day of Shakespeare himself. Proceeds were in aid of the Sydney Day Nursery Association's funds.

MISS LOTTIE DEARN'S RECITAL.

Miss Lottie Dearn's annual pianoforte recital at the Conservatorium owed much to the excellent judgment displayed in the planning of the programme. This was opened with three very beautiful examples of the old masters, embraced important and characteristic pieces by Chopin, and grouped famous numbers by Mendelssohn and Schumann with such graceful modern music as Debussy's "Arabesque" and Macdowell's "Shadow Dance."

In the interpretation of all this charmful music Miss Dearn sustained a high technical level, combined with genuine feeling for the subject in hand. There was nothing sensational about the young pianist's style, but it gave pleasure to all cultivated listeners. The "Prelude and Fugue in C sharp" of Bach formed a most alluring example of the Old Cantor, always sparkling in its continuous grace right up to the large terminal chords of the prelude. The neat technique of the player again held the audience in the vivacious fugue, rendered with many subtle nuances right up to four more decided terminal chords—the whole absolutely enchanting. Mozart's "Fantasie D Minor," another effort of genius from an inimitable master, and the fascinating "Sonata E flat Opus 7" of Beethoven, were so interpreted by Miss Dearn as to please and refresh every listener, and the recalls were of the most cordial character.

HEALTH INSPECTORS' FEDERATION

Steps have been taken to form a federation of health inspectors, to be known as the Australian Health Inspectors' Association. The main objects of the new federation, which were announced at the conference of the Health Inspectors' Society of New South Wales yesterday, are to promote the advancement of sanitary science; to stimulate interest in, and disseminate knowledge on, all questions affecting the public health and kindred subjects; and to take cognisance of all sanitary legislation, and guard the interests of members of the federation. The annual fee is to be 2/ per each contributing member of an association represented in the federation.

The draft of the constitution is to be submitted to the health associations and societies in other States for ratification.

On behalf of the New South Wales Association, Mr. J. L. Walters moved,—"That it is expedient to form a Federal body on the lines of the draft constitution."

Each of the delegates from other States supported the resolution, which was agreed to.

PRICES OF SPIRITS.

The Acting Prices Commissioner received a message from Melbourne yesterday stating that the fixed prices for spirits and spirituous liquors of every description have been repealed.

IF YOU SUFFER

—and everybody does sometimes—from the numerous ailments which arise from a temporary disorder of the digestive system, such a feeling of discomfort after eating, a poor appetite, irregular action of the bowels, an unpleasant taste in the mouth on rising, sick headache, biliousness or similar disagreeable symptoms, the most satisfactory and sensible course to pursue is to

TAKE

a course of the famous stomach medicine—Beecham's Pills. In all probability you will find that relief will follow the first dose of this excellent preparation; and if the treatment is persevered with, on the lines indicated in the directions, a speedy and complete cure will result. People of every age and of every class in society have proved in the past, and are proving in the present, the remarkable value of

WHAT IS THIS?
Does it not strike you as conclusive evidence that after offering £100 Reward to anyone who has a Remedy other than my own (which no one has claimed) for the Total Destruction of Superfluous Hair, there are no other remedies? And that it is immaterial what you buy it is useless as far as Superfluous Hairs and their destruction are concerned. No one has accepted my challenge, nor has one of the thousands of clients treated by me claimed the reward because "their hair has grown again." This must forcibly impress on you that there are no other permanent cures only electrolysis, which must be done by an experienced person.
I AM THE SPECIALIST OF SYDNEY, FOR SEVENTEEN YEARS AT MY PRESENT ADDRESS. For further proof am willing to remove a few hairs free of charge. This treatment will convince.
